President's Aiming For Landslide

Big, Enthusiastic Crowds Greet Him In Iowa, Illinois

IN THE MIDWEST WITH JOHNSON (AP) — President Johnson, gloves off and slugging without letup, is telling Midwest audiences he's aiming for the biggest election landslide in history.

Johnson's campaign for a full four years in the White House took a marked turn Wednesday as he opened a "Heartland of America" tour before large and enthusiastic crowds in Iowa and Illinois.

For the first time since his nomination, Johnson began grabbing almost every opportunity to shout for a Democratic victory — nay, landslide — in November. Toned down were his efforts to take a nonpartisan, above-the-battle stance.

Johnson, swinging through Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky today, gave an all-out demonstration of his new campaign style Wednesday night in Peoria, Ill., at the convention of the Illinois AFL-CIO.

Speaking off the cuff in a smoky, bare-raftered armory, Johnson hollered out a rhetorical question about the campaign: "Are we going to get the job done, and are we going to do it up brown?"

Yes, came the roar from the labor union conventioneers.

Quickly, Johnson shot back that Thomas E. Dewey, the GOP presidential nominee of 1948, "thought he was going to do it up brown." But Harry Truman won the victory.

Johnson noted that all the public opinion polls showed Dewey winning — just as most put Johnson well ahead of Republican Barry Goldwater.

Urging against overconfidence, the President exhorted his audience to get out and work for the Democratic ticket and help give "Lyndon Johnson and Hubert Humphrey the biggest victory . . . ." Cheers drowned out the rest.

It was the President's first public statement indicating uneasiness over the poll results and his election prospects. But this statement was overshadowed, time and time again, by unequivocal Johnson forecasts before crowds in Springfield, Peoria and Chicago.

Arriving at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport for an overnight stay at a nearby motel, Johnson said flatly: "The Democratic party is going to have the greatest victory in November in the history of America."

That would mean topping Franklin D. Roosevelt's 1936 record of taking 46 of the then 48 states from Republican Alfred E. Landon. The GOP then carried only Maine and Vermont.

Johnson Due Close Guard At Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Security arrangements—from signs at elevator doors to a police helicopter—are ready for President Johnson's visit here today.

Signs at a downtown hotel where the President will stay ask that anything or anyone of a suspicious nature be brought to the attention of the building manager.

Also briefed and ready are more than 500 policemen, sheriff's deputies, secret service agents and U. S. marshals. They will line the motorcade route from Burke Lakefront Airport, where the President's plane will land at 4:45 p.m., to the hotel—about a mile and a half.

Police also are keeping under surveillance a number of known extremists here.

A police helicopter will be in radio contact with detectives on the street.

Johnson, campaigning through the midwest, will speak tonight at a $100-a-plate dinner at the mall convention center at Public Hall.

Also ready for use if the President wants it is the reinforced bubble-top limousine, now rebuilt, in which President Kennedy was assassinated.

During his visit here in June, the President twice got out of an auto and, in his usual fashion, walked along shaking hands with crowds who came to cheer his arrival. Once he was surrounded by the crowd.

Proposed Fleet 'Safe'

NATO Discounts Soviet's Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — Military experts of eight NATO nations have concluded that the Soviet Union lacks enough long-range bombers, nuclear submarines and fast ships to knock out a proposed fleet of Polaris missile-firing surface vessels.

Government sources told The Associated Press today North Atlantic Treaty Organizations experts had reached unanimous agreement that the Soviet Union would not be able to keep track of 20 alliance-owned and operated missile ships cruising at random in almost 4 million square miles of the Atlantic and Mediterranean.

Critics of the proposed NATO nuclear force have questioned whether it could survive in a war situation long enough to launch its 2,875-mile-range Polaris missiles at Communist targets.

U.S. officials said the NATO military experts, in effect, endorsed its 'survivability" after a 3½-month study.

Britain's Royal Navy has been among the critics of the proposed NATO force's military worth. But the sources' reference to unanimous agreement on the study findings indicated the British representative also upheld the force's ability to survive.

Other nations taking part in the military study were the United States, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands, Greece and Turkey.

This NATO fleet as originally envisioned would be manned by crews from many NATO nations.

The West German government reportedly is pressing the United States to nail down an agreement on the fleet by the end of the year.

Most opposition to the plan has come from Britain. This week Labor party Leader Harold Wilson strongly restated his party's objection to the proposed force.

However, U.S. government authorities indicate the United States probably would push ahead with the plan even if the Laborites win Britain's election next Thursday and refuse to participate.

The military study found that nature provides a built-in defense for the force. In addition to the vast oceans it would roam, the military group noted, there are some 12,000 miles of NATO coastline along which the ships could be dispersed. Also, shallow waters and inland water systems provide an element of natural defense against submarines.

It was decided that under normal cold war conditions 'surprise is not a serious threat because the high Soviet force level required for fast search of a large area is readily detectable."

'At present the Soviets do not have the requisite aircraft or submarines to trail the ships," the group found.

2 Jailed In Political Fight Lose Ballot On President

Barry Goldwater and Lyndon Johnson each lost one vote in the Nov. 3 general election when Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff sent two of their staunchest East Liverpool supporters to County Jail today for 30-day terms — result of a barroom battle Saturday night.

Charles Anderson, 69, of 108 E. Church Ln. was stabbed three times with a small pocket knife when he objected fervently to a Goldwater button worn by Frank Dressander, 48, of 753 Valley Ave., according to police reports.

Both pleaded "no contest" when arraigned before Judge Chertoff this morning. Dressander originally was charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, while Anderson was named on a simple assault charge. The affidavit against Dressander also was reduced to simple assault today.

After hearing the story from the two principals and Patrolman Kenneth H. Mooney, Judge Chertoff said:

"You men carried your politics a little too far. The candidates for President and vice president go about the country calling each other names, but they don't engage in physical violence.

"But you won't be able to cancel out each others' vote on Nov. 3. The sentence of the court is that you serve 30 days in County Jail."

The two won't even be able to vote an absentee ballot. State law says an absentee must be outside Columbiana County and at least 10 miles from his home precinct on Election Day.

Dressander told the court the fight was touched off by a Goldwater button he was wearing as both he and Anderson sat at the bar at the Buckeye Tavern on Dresden Ave. He said Anderson commented about the button and called Dressander a vile name.

Officer Mooney told the court how officers were summoned to the tavern about 10:56 Saturday night on a report of a stabbing. Both principals had gone, but Anderson later was found in E. Church Ln. and Dressander was

Underground Atomic Blast Slated Today

BAXTERVILLE, Miss. (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission today was to detonate a small nuclear device in a salt dome, 2,700 feet below a south Mississippi pine forest to test American equipment for spotting underground atomic explosions.

Seismographic stations around the world — including at least two behind the Iron Curtain — were to record the explosion.

The blast, given the code name "Salmon" by the AEC, equals 5,000 tons of TNT, and has about one-fourth of the force of the atom bomb dropped on Hiroshima in World War II.

Salmon is the first phase of AEC Project Dribble, designed at beefing-up American scientific equipment for detecting, pinpointing and classifying underground nuclear explosions.

More than 100 Lamar County residents in the immediate area over the Tatum salt domes have been evacuated temporarily. For their inconvenience, the AEC plans to pay adult evacuees $10 each and children under 13 $5 each.

Barry Raps Johnson's Doubletalk

Charges Political Deception As To 'My Own Record'

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater charged today President Johnson is basing his campaign "on political doubletalk as to his own record and political deception as to mine."

The Republican presidential nominee charged into the Southwest after a foray into New Jersey, marred somewhat by heckling in several spots.

In a speech prepared for Lubbock, Goldwater said that even though Johnson was in the midst of a six-day campaign tour the President had refused to discuss the key issues of the campaign.

Johnson, in speeches Tuesday in Raleigh, N.C., and Wednesday at Des Moines, Iowa, said Goldwater's farm policy would wipe out farm price supports and this, the President contended, would cut farm income in half and bankrupt one or every five farmers.

Today Goldwater replied: "Republicans are pledged to return farmers to the free market but they also are pledged to do it without working any hardship on farmers who must now, mainly because of past government failures, depend upon support payments."

The Arizona senator said that Johnson was taking credit for everything "that is good in the world," and "blamed all those who oppose him for everything that could possibly be bad."

In New Jersey Wednesday night, Goldwater had two of the most wildly enthusiastic receptions of his campaign at West Essex and Teaneck.

There were dissenting teenagers waving unfriendly placards and shouting "we want Johnson." But the Goldwater supporters booed and shouted down most of the heckling efforts.

Civil rights groups and other organized groups joined in picketing around the armories where Goldwater spoke. His audiences were almost exclusively white.

Goldwater took the organized heckling with a smile, and asked his partisans not to boo. He said his critics had a right to be heard, and should be excused because they didn't know what they were doing.

American Motors Talks Broken Off

Threat Of New Walkout Looms In Auto Industry

DETROIT (AP) — The threat of a new strike loomed over the nation's auto industry today as negotiators continued efforts to settle local plant demands and end a nationwide walkout against General Motors.

Fewer than 20 settlements were reported at some 130 bargaining units around the country.

National contract bargaining was broken off Wednesday between the United Auto Workers and American Motors Corp., when the talks bogged down in disagreement over retaining a unique profit sharing provision.

Douglas Fraser, who heads the UAW negotiation team, said that there is still time to reach a settlement before the AMC contract expires at midnight Oct. 15, but if no agreement is reached by that time "there will be a strike."

Edward L. Cushman, AMC vice president leading the company negotiators, said the union had rejected a proposal to finance increased pension and insurance benefits through the profit sharing program.

Cushman was asked if he felt the UAW's turndown meant that profit sharing was dead for the next three-year labor contract.

"I would say so," he replied.

But Fraser disagreed, contending the profit-sharing provision was still on the bargaining table and any decision to discard it would not be made unilaterally by one side or the other.

The profit-sharing plan — termed "progress sharing" by the negotiators — was adopted for the first time in 1961 and is the only such program in the auto industry.

It sets up a special fund tied to the company's profits and used to finance some fringe benefits. Part of the money is set aside for the purchase of common stock for the company's 26,000 UAW-represented employes.

Foreign Aid Measure Signed By President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed the $3.25-billion foreign aid appropriations bill Wednesday before leaving on his Midwestern campaign trip. Congress had authorized $3.5 billion, but trimmed the program in the appropriations bill.

Johnson also signed a bill appropriating $1.1 billion for a variety of programs, including his "war on poverty," civil rights legislation, food stamp programs and mass transportation.

7,800 Face Draft

New Legal Round Opens On Sheppard

CINCINNATI (AP) — Another legal round in the Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard murder case—this time in a federal court—begins today when the state of Ohio attempts to prove the Cleveland osteopath was illegally released from prison this summer.

A hearing on a 600-page brief filed by the state is scheduled to get under way this morning in the 6th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The state is appealing an order by U. S. Dist. Judge Carl A. Weinman which permitted Sheppard to walk out of Ohio Penitentiary July 16 under $10,000 bond after nearly 10 years behind bars on a wife-murder conviction.

Sheppard, 40, and his bride of a few weeks, Ariane Tebbenjohanns, are expected to be in the courtroom.

Ariane, a 34-year-old German divorcee with whom Sheppard corresponded while in prison, married Dr. Sam in Chicago shortly after his release from prison. They now live in Rocky River near Cleveland.

Sheppard, who was sentenced to life on a second-degree murder conviction in the bludgeon slaying of his wife, Marilyn, July 4, 1954, had been slated for parole consideration this month.

The state contends that Judge Weinman lacked authority to void the conviction because Sheppard had failed to exhaust his remedies in Ohio courts.

Blocks His Attendance At Meeting

Must Take Police From Embassies To Gain Release

CAIRO (AP) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser and Premier Moise Tshombe stood fast today, with Nasser still holding Tshombe hostage and Tshombe's police blocking off the Egyptian Embassy in Leopoldville.

Tshombe, the Congo's premier, was spending his third day under house arrest in the Aruba Palace just outside Cairo. Nasser had ordered him held there to prevent his attending the conference of nonaligned nations. Egyptian troops and police barred all but a few selected visitors.

Nasser sent word to Tshombe that he would not be released until his police lift their blockade of the Egyptian and Algerian embassies in Leopoldville. The embassies were surrounded and all movement in and out blocked in retaliation for Nasser's treatment of Tshombe.

A Congolese Embassy official in Cairo told newsmen the Egyptians would have to give way first.

"We will end the restrictions on their embassy in Leopoldville when they release Premier Tshombe here," he said.

Congolese Charge d'Affaires Rene Bavasa, after a three-hour visit with Tshombe Wednesday night, told newsmen he hoped "this mess" would be cleared up today.

He said Tshombe had cabled Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu to find out "just what is going on down there." But he said Tshombe had sent no instructions to lift the siege on the embassy.

Reports circulated that Nasser's United Arab Republic government would suspend diplomatic relations with Leopoldville.

Asked how Tshombe was taking his confinement, Bavasa replied: "You know Tshombe. He's always in good spirits. He's back there watching the conference on television."

Tshombe had insisted on attending the conference despite a cable from its leaders to Kasavubu telling the president he would be welcome but not the premier.

$7,500 Loss Set In Blaze

Hancock Candidate Loses Rural House

NEW CUMBERLAND — Only a brick chimney was left when fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Ross Rd. home of George Konchar, Democratic nominee for Hancock County clerk, Wednesday afternoon. Loss of $7,500 was set.

The home near the Pennsylvania state line burned to the ground as volunteer firemen from New Cumberland and Pughtown vainly attempted to quell the flames.

Firemen, who estimated the loss, said the fire was too far advanced when they arrived to save any portion of the two-story frame.

The alarm was turned in at 1 p. m. by Vincent McDonald, a neighbor who lives some distance away. McDonald said when he first spotted the fire the flames were pouring out the windows.

Konchar was shopping in Weirton and learned of the fire when he stopped at Democratic headquarters. His wife was at work and four children ranging from 11 to 17 were in school.

The family is staying temporarily with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Laurine in Weirton.

American Motors Talks Broken Off

Threat Of New Walkout Looms In Auto Industry

DETROIT (AP) — The threat of a new strike loomed over the nation's auto industry today as negotiators continued efforts to settle local plant demands and end a nationwide walkout against General Motors.

Fewer than 20 settlements were reported at some 130 bargaining units around the country.

National contract bargaining was broken off Wednesday between the United Auto Workers and American Motors Corp., when the talks bogged down in disagreement over retaining a unique profit sharing provision.

Douglas Fraser, who heads the UAW negotiation team, said that there is still time to reach a settlement before the AMC contract expires at midnight Oct. 15, but if no agreement is reached by that time "there will be a strike."

Edward L. Cushman, AMC vice president leading the company negotiators, said the union had rejected a proposal to finance increased pension and insurance benefits through the profit sharing program.

Cushman was asked if he felt the UAW's turndown meant that profit sharing was dead for the next three-year labor contract.

Foreign Aid Measure Signed By President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed the $3.25-billion foreign aid appropriations bill Wednesday before leaving on his Midwestern campaign trip. Congress had authorized $3.5 billion, but trimmed the program in the appropriations bill.

Johnson also signed a bill appropriating $1.1 billion for a variety of programs, including his "war on poverty," civil rights legislation, food stamp programs and mass transportation.

7,800 Face Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has issued a call for 7,800 men to be drafted in December, 800 less than the 8,600 to be drafted in November. All the draftees would be assigned to the Army.

New Legal Round Opens On Sheppard

CINCINNATI (AP) — Another legal round in the Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard murder case—this time in a federal court—begins today when the state of Ohio attempts to prove the Cleveland osteopath was illegally released from prison this summer.

A hearing on a 600-page brief filed by the state is scheduled to get under way this morning in the 6th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The state is appealing an order by U. S. Dist. Judge Carl A. Weinman which permitted Sheppard to walk out of Ohio Penitentiary July 16 under $10,000 bond after nearly 10 years behind bars on a wife-murder conviction.

Sheppard, 40, and his bride of a few weeks, Ariane Tebbenjohanns, are expected to be in the courtroom.

Ariane, a 34-year-old German divorcee with whom Sheppard corresponded while in prison, married Dr. Sam in Chicago shortly after his release from prison. They now live in Rocky River near Cleveland.

Sheppard, who was sentenced to life on a second-degree murder conviction in the bludgeon slaying of his wife, Marilyn, July 4, 1954, had been slated for parole consideration this month.

The state contends that Judge Weinman lacked authority to void the conviction because Sheppard had failed to exhaust his remedies in Ohio courts.

$7,500 Loss Set In Blaze

Hancock Candidate Loses Rural House

NEW CUMBERLAND — Only a brick chimney was left when fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Ross Rd. home of George Konchar, Democratic nominee for Hancock County clerk, Wednesday afternoon. Loss of $7,500 was set.

The home near the Pennsylvania state line burned to the ground as volunteer firemen from New Cumberland and Pughtown vainly attempted to quell the flames.

Firemen, who estimated the loss, said the fire was too far advanced when they arrived to save any portion of the two-story frame.

The alarm was turned in at 1 p. m. by Vincent McDonald, a neighbor who lives some distance away. McDonald said when he first spotted the fire the flames were pouring out the windows.

Konchar was shopping in Weirton and learned of the fire when he stopped at Democratic headquarters. His wife was at work and four children ranging from 11 to 17 were in school.

The family is staying temporarily with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Laurine in Weirton.

Upset Injures Truck Driver

LISBON — James R. Richards, 30, Versailles truck driver, received a sprained hip when his tractor - trailer upset here at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Coiled steel cable spilled from the trailer onto the Charles Whan property at 647 E. Lincoln Way at the McKinley St. junction.

Policeman John Vokovich said Richards told him he was driving north on Route 30 — Jackson St.; heard something snap as he crossed the railroad tracks and found he had no brakes.

Richards said the E. Lincoln Way junction was blocked by a northbound car waiting for the traffic light, so he steered between the car and Conn's Service Station and attempted to turn east toward Elkton. Route 30 goes to the west on E. Lincoln Way.

The rig was unable to make the 90-degree turn and upset at the north curbing on Lincoln Way. Police estimated about $700 damage to the truck owned by Jon Juillrat of Portland, Ind.

The volunteer fire department ambulance took Richards to Salem City Hospital. He was released after treatment and spent the night at Village Hall.

He forfeited a $25 appearance bond on a charge of driving an unsafe vehicle.

'Off To Good Start'

Report Shows $20,178 For Midland United Fund

The 1964 Midland Area United Fund campaign is off to a good start with a report of $20,178 of its $59,788 goal, Charles Kurcina of Ohioville, general campaign chairman, announced.

The first of four weekly report meetings was held at Midland High School Monday night.

Kurcina said, "With 34 per cent of our goal reported, we are off to a good start. However, the campaign will not be successful until we have achieved 100 per cent of our quota.

He said many divisions are still lagging.

Leading in the reports was the Public Service Division headed by Charles L. Finley of Midland, with a report of 94 per cent of his $475 goal. Other divisional reports were Fr. John Sabovik, special gifts, 23 per cent; Mrs. Barbara Hallett of Ohioville, clubs and organizations, 26 per cent; Frank Meredith of Fairview, education, 10 per cent; P. K. O'Hara of Industry and Charles Whittacre of Midland, building trades, 19 per cent; Charles R. Schmitt of Midland, manufacturing, 31 per cent, and Mrs. Jack Haggerty of Midland, residential, 12 per cent.

Joseph D'Alesio, president of Steelworkers Local 1212, and campaign co-chairman, said Midlanders would be more willing to contribute if they could see they are being aided by the United Fund agencies.

According to a UF list for the last 12 months, 181 Midlanders were aided by the Red Cross, 150 by the Catholic Social Service, 142 by the Beaver County Council of Girl Scouts, 930 by the Salvation Army, 75 by the Boy Scouts of America, 46 by the Beaver County Branch of the Pennsylvania Association for the Blind, 30 by the Beaver County Heart Association, 15 by the Mental Health Society, 30 by the Pennsylvania State YMCA, 50 by the Rochester General Hospital, 29 by the Children's Aid and Family Service, 15 by the Mental Health Society, seven each by the Beaver Valley YMCA, Health & Welfare Council and Travelers Aid Society, six by the Beaver County Cancer Society, five by the Retarded Children, four by Aliquippa Hospital, two by the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation and one by the Beaver County Children's Home.

There were 156 people from the Midland area aided by the Mental Hygiene Clinic.

In the Midland Area, 1,873 persons were aided in Midland, 502 in Industry, 192 in Ohioville, and 299 in Smiths Ferry, for a total of 2,866 people. This represented a 2.7 per cent increase over 1963.

Midland area residents were reminded that the annual United Fund drive is one drive instead of 43, and residents are urged to make pledges accordingly. Pledges may be paid in installments.

San Jose State split 10 football games last season and almost divided points in their games. The Spartans made 187 points to 194 for their rivals.

WAUSEON, Ohio (AP)—Most of the $5,900 loot taken in a holdup of a bank in Pioneer (Williams County) Tuesday was found hidden in a barn near here last night, the Fulton County sheriff's office said.

A search with bloodhounds by sheriff's deputies, highway patrolmen and the FBI also uncovered in the barn, located near the small community of Tedrow, a sawed-off shotgun believed to be the one used in the robbery of the Pioneer Banking Co.

Last night's search began when it was learned that a 25-year-old suspect, who reportedly resided near the bank building in Pioneer, was in the area. The manhunt was to resume this morning with additional help from an Ohio Highway Patrol helicopter.

One Gift Works Many Wonders

A needy family in Pleasant Heights, a young Chester boy seeking companionship, a Calcutta girl confused by the challenge of life, a lonely soldier in Viet Nam.

All are aided by the one gift each of us can provide through the new United Fund.

Once again it is the season for the helping hand, to join with others of the community in contributing to the support of our charity and service agencies.

This year marks a milestone in the program, for the United Fund has taken over the role of the former Community Fund, the agencies now numbering 12, compared with eight just two years ago.

Consolidation of these fund drives into a single effort and utilizing the payroll deduction system rather than bothersome house-to-house canvasses has proven popular with the public and economical in terms of volunteer workers and promotion expenses.

This year, with the two additional agencies, the goal of the United Fund is $110,000, the largest set so far in the history of the East Liverpool area.

However, the faith shown in the agencies in the past—the goal of $80,000 met for six organizations in 1962 and the goal of $95,000 passed in 1963—promises to again insure these services will be provided in full measure next year.

Each has a vital role in our community—the Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Camp Fire Girls, YMCA, Recreation Council, BPW Child Health Clinic, Cerebral Palsy Fund, Child Counseling Center and United Service Organization.

Their continued operation not only means a humanitarion objective achieved, but a spirit of progressive community enterprise mentioned.

One gift works many wonders, not only for others, but for yourself. Pledge your full support for The United Fund.

Let's Stick To The Facts

Back in July, Barry Goldwater committed what friend and foe alike consider to be his biggest political boner by injecting the issue of nuclear weapons control into the campaign.

It came about in an interview in Der Spiegel, the West German news magazine, in which he remarked:

"There is a real need for the supreme commander (of NATO) to be able to use judgment on the use of these weapons (tactical nuclear weapons) more expeditiously than he could by telephoning the White House, and I would say that in these cases the supreme commander should be given great leeway in the decision to use them or not to use them."

WHAMMO! From that moment on, the senator's detractors have characterized him as a trigger-happy, dangerous scatterbrain who is itching to plunge the nation into war. No more politically damaging label could be pasted on a candidate for the nation's top job.

But now some new facts are falling in place and it turns out that Barry Goldwater may be able to grab the last laugh.

What these facts show is that while he and most other Americans may not have known it at the time, Sen. Goldwater was only repeating in July a policy set forth nearly 10 years ago by President Eisenhower.

White House documents quoted by columnists on this page show, for example, that certain NATO field commanders already have the right to exercise tactical judgment in the use of weapons at their command in the event a president is incapacitated or during a communications breakdown.

Thus three months after that July interview, we learn that Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson have delegated some authority over the use of nuclear weapons.

THE FACT remains that Sen. Goldwater blundered on the nuclear issue which, as Mr. Eisenhower said this week, should not be part of the campaign.

But more important, we think, is the matter of truth in political campaigning. The public can expect opponents for the presidency to make political hay out of each other's statements, but it also has the right to expect them to stick to facts.

President Johnson and his supporters have strayed from the truth to pump up an issue that is as nonexistent as that great missile gap the Democrats howled about in the 1960 campaign and which Secretary of Defense McNamara dismissed as nonsense within a week after taking office.

And Then There Were None

"Ten little Injuns standin' in a line
One toddled home and then there were nine . . ."

Remember that little nursery rhyme? New York City has rewritten the closing of it to go like this:

"One legitimate gambler purchased a stamp
Now even he has deserted the camp."

There was nothing fictional about the report that only one person in New York City had purchased a gambling stamp. But the impression that it might have conveyed—that New York City is free of gambling—certainly is.

WHAT THE REPORT actually served to do is to underscore the truth of what has long been known: The gambling act passed by Congress in 1951 is ineffectual because it is difficult to enforce.

The gambling legislation of 1951 followed closely on the heels of the sensational hearings conducted by the Senate Crime Investigating Committee, headed by the late Sen. Estes Kefauver.

Not even the most ardent proponent of the legislation believed it would eliminate crime. The goal was to hold gamblers up to public view and to reap some of the rich returns that gamblers harvested.

It aimed to accomplish this through a 10 per cent excise tax on the gross income of gamblers.

FORECASTS that the 10 per cent excise tax would raise $400 million annually proved far too optimistic. In its first four years, the tax raised a scant $33 million.

Moreover, the law required all those who take bets to register and buy a $50 tax stamp each year. Gamblers largely have chosen to ignore this section of the law although it provides a penalty of up to one year in prison and a $10,000 fine.

But gambling is one business where it does not pay to advertise.

Thus it was not surprising that Andrew Wisner's purchase of a gambling tax stamp won him wide exposure in a city of 8 million people. And less surprising that because of the exposure he decided to retire from the gambling profession.

Homecoming

By Gene Winski

Old Eyewash U. has advised us that homecoming weekend is approaching and a stellar list of activities has been arranged for same. From experience, we know what will happen if we join in the festivities . . .

Nostalgically, Old Graduate sets out to recapture the happy days of his youth. He dreams of all the old friends he will see and of all the events they will recall together. After he finally arrives at the sleepy town that encompasses alma mater, he is brought up short.

The old dorm, where he had so much fun for four years and where he even studied on occasion — it's gone. Where it stood now rises a multi-storied glass enclosure. Can this be old Eyewash? It must be; a sign identifies the structure as Eyewash U. Memorial Library. Whatever happened to the hallowed halls of learning, those beautiful ivy-covered Gothic buildings?

Well, the architecture may have changed, Old Graduate concedes, but surely the spirit hasn't. The spirit never changes at century-old Eyewash U.

SO OLD GRADUATE hastens to the student union, so bubbling over with anticipation he can hardly refrain from breaking into a run. Among all those people in the union, Old Graduate finally spots a familiar face — and it belongs to a fellow who was in that other fraternity we never mention in the polite circles.

But it's the only familiar one. So Old Graduate eagerly crosses the room and grasps the hand that accompanies the face, "Joe Piffle, you old son-of-gun. How are you? Gee it's been years since I've seen you." And they quickly become bosom buddies.

Old Graduate has been looking forward to the homecoming dance — that's why he left the family at home. But he learns to his distress that there are two homecoming dances, one for students and one for alumni. Who wants to spend the evening ogling middle-aged housewives? So Old Graduate stays in his motel room watching television.

The next morning is devoted to the dedication of a new hall. Dutifully, Old Graduate attends the ceremony. Prof. Throckmorton begins the dedicatory address. "Boy, he's still as dull as when he lectured on the Principles of Education," Old Graduate mumbles as he unobtrusively slips out a side door.

"SURELY everything will come to life now," Old Graduate thinks as he heads for the afternoon football game. He's a little embarrassed as the band strikes up the alma mater. "All hail to thee . . ." he sings, but beyond that memory fails him.

And of course he's sitting with Joe Piffle. And the game is not bad. Except that Joe keeps yelling "Chop 'em down" in his raucous voice. "Boy how I hate those guys," Joe says of the opposition —Eyewash's traditional rival. "Gosh," Old Graduate muses to himself, "some of the finest men I know went to that school."

At halftime, of course, they honored the homecoming queen. "Man what a peach," says Joe. "I could go for a dish like that." And Old Graduate, thinking of his 17-year-old daughter at home, concedes, "So could I."

And he decides he'd better be hitting the road.

. . . Well, that's homecoming. See you there!

An Extra Burden

Management Plunges Into Politics

By Victor Riesel

KANSAS CITY, MO.

Indeed everything's up to date in Kansas City. Here, a few miles to the west of Harry Truman, businessmen are going into politics — but not as they once did, simply by donating money and advice to the grand old party of their choice.

Victor Riesel

Here, now, as in scores of other communities across the nation, they are going into the precincts, the political club houses, the door bell ringing business, political know-how seminars, and are studying special motion pictures on what fun it is to be in the biggest show of all.

It's all very serious — and it is giving labor's Committee on Political Education (COPE) the toughest run it has had for its money since the old CIO's Sidney Hillman made political action a nationwide proletarian pastime back in '43.

ONE OF THE MOST active new forces is the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM). The political observer cutting across country finds that NAM advance men have been there first, paving the way for one or another of the 11 national conference worker shop leaders now touring the country for the NAM. Most of them are executives for major corporations.

Their approach is scientific and hard-hitting. They're applying the great American genius for mass selling — and door-to-door salesmanship — to politics. Their objective is to get their young middle management men — of whom there are several milion — directly into precinct politics.

Frequently the workshops sponsored by the NAM, which has 16,000 affiliated manufacturers, show films. These movies are intriguing, professionally produced in sound and color in Cleveland studios.

The movie series is called "The Bill Boyntons Go into Politics." There are 400 prints being shown almost daily across the country.

THE THEME is straightforward. It's fun for young people to be in politics. The fictional Boyntons are a young couple. They show how politics in their region brings them new social circles, more friends and participation in significant developments in our country's life.

The first script tells of how this suburban couple, dissatisfied with local politics, decide to do something about it. They volunteer in the party of their choice, they work in election campaigns on their block, in their precinct and then in city, congressional, and election districts.

There are three other movies: "The Most Important Campaign in the World," in which the Boyntons manage a congressional campaign; "The Most Important Precinct in the World," in which the Boyntons explain how to get out the party vote where elections are won and lost; and "The Most Important Politician in the World." Here, the Boyntons explain the functions of the political party and why the citizen should fight for the one of his choice.

BUT A TRIP across country shows the observer that the NAM is not just concentrating on suburbia. The NAM is not taking for granted that the union member will listen only to the labor leader or to COPE. In many communities there are copies of the NAM Campaign Technique Manual in which there is a section on wooing the workers right in the factories.

This manual reveals what industry can do when it swings into action. It is sales technique at its most precise stage.

For example: "Objective: To acquaint each factory worker with the candidate," says the manual. "Timing: If an incumbent (is visiting the factory—V.R.), should be in advance of the campaign itself. If not . . . should be during the campaign.

"ASK FOR INFORMATION about times of shift changes so you can meet each employe as he comes to work . . . arrange for a tour of the factory by one of the workers and not a member of the management. Try to arrange this tour so that the candidate will be able to mingle with the workers. . . .

"Don't forget those on the night shift. They will be particularly impressed if the candidate shows enough interest to appear at the gate at midnight. . . ."

The NAM is even telling its people how to ring doorbells and labor's COPE will have to look to its laurels. The NAM manual, written by men who are steeped in the tradition of house - to - house sales, has thought of everything, including the 30-second length of the door step speech with four mentions of the candidates.

There are plans for phone ringer brigades — set up in special rooms with baby sitter kindergartens attached, so young mothers will turn out.

Yes, everything is up to date in Kansas City and scores of other cities, too. We'll soon see who handles politics best—the middle management man who is just beginning or the middle age business agent who's been at it for years.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — Miss Sarah Lou Grewell of Chester was a delegate from the Hancock County Educational Association at the meeting of the West Virginia State Classroom Teachers Association at Keyser, W. Va.

Mrs. Harold Pipes was named president of the R. View Club during a meeting at the home of Mrs. Robert Massey of Montgomery Ave.

Today In History

By George Lichty

Today is Thursday, Oct. 8, the 282nd day of 1964. There are 84 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1871, the great Chicago fire began.

In 1903, the United States and China signed a commercial treaty.

In 1943, Allied patrols crossed the Volturno River in Italy.

In 1945, President Harry S. Truman announced that the United States would retain the secret of atomic bomb production and that only Canada would share the knowledge.

Ten years ago—At a Republican rally in Denver, President Dwight D. Eisenhower appealed to American voters to disregard their political affiliations and elect a GOP Congress.

Five years ago — Charles Van Doren telegraphed a House committee investigating charges of television quiz shows being rigged that at no time had he been supplied with questions or answers.

One year ago—West Germany ruled out joining French nuclear deterrent, and the Bonn government gave its support to the United States on a mixed missile fleet.

The Real Challenge

By David Lawrence

Two Significant Speeches Are Reviewed

In any attempt to find out what problems are presenting a real challenge in America today, not much information will be gleaned from a reading of the speeches in the presidential campaign. But a great deal will be learned from a careful perusal of recent utterances of some prominent men outside of public life who are intimately in touch with the economic trends of the country.

David Lawrence

Thus, for example, two significant speeches were made a few days ago, one by Joseph L. Block, chairman of the Inland Steel Co., and the other by Robert C. Tyson, chairman of the finance committee of the U. S. Steel Corp.

What they said goes to the heart of America's problem in dealing with poverty, social improvement and the furnishing of jobs to the increasing number of persons in the labor market each year.

Tyson's address, delivered before the 25th annual taxpayers conference of the Public Expenditure Survey of Wisconsin, was concerned with job creation and what stimulates it. He said:

"The need for economic growth and for jobs for the army of 'war babies' now entering the labor markets will only be satisfied by the growth of viable profitable industries.

"THERE CAN BE NO economic growth — no effective war on poverty — for any locality, state, or country without the prospect of profit, without greater private capital investment.

"Again, every locality and area is in competition for investment funds, and every investor seeks to maximize his return and minimize his risk.

"In this competition, the investor is the umpire, the final arbiter. He will seek out the superior climate for investment, the superior climate for profit. He has little other choice."

Block, whose company got into the headlines during the steel controversy of 1962 when it refused to go along with U.S. Steel's increase in prices, delivered his talk in Chicago at a regional meeting of the American Iron & Steel Institute.

He referred to some "misconceptions" about prices and said that "many people think that if one steel price goes up, it may be all right, but that something is very wrong if a number of prices go up."

He pointed out that there is a close relationship between steel products and that if the price of only one of them is raised, "the price structure may well be out of kilter."

Block pleaded for a better understanding by the public of the financial dilemmas faced currently by the steel industry. He said:

"This means a realization on the part of the public that steel earnings, in relation to investment, are inadequate. If the public was fully aware of this, there would not be such a hue and cry every time some steelmaker inferred that he might raise prices.

"Increases in prices, when supported by the demands of the market, are no less a legitimate method of improving profits than are increased volume and lowered costs."

BLOCK POINTED out further that the main challenge to the steel industry is in "making an adequate profit." He declared that "the clear fact is that we do not make a satisfactory return on the vast sums of money invested in the industry."

He said that, in return on its worth, steel was 37th in the list of 41 industries in 1963, and that steel's return was 7.2 per cent compared with 11.5 per cent for the average of all manufacturing industries. He added:

"Of course our profits will be better this year than last as they should with increased volume, and it is to this that some will point as proof of their belief that steel profits are satisfactory. But I contend that this is not the proper criterion. The true yardstick is return on invested capital and here we simply do not measure up."

Block referred to what he described as "the improved climate" in the steel industry's labor relations. He said that the next go-round of consultations between labor and management is not far off, and he thinks it is reasonable to expect a successful outcome.

He pointed out that steel's "average hourly rate last year was 26 cents an hour higher than the auto industry" and "higher than the auto workers will be getting three years hence."

President Johnson in his statement apropos of the settlement of the contract between General Motors and the auto workers union expressed the expectation that "other industries with profits below the high level in autos will not use the auto settlement as a pattern."

But each union is out to get as much as it can, and when a standard is set by the auto workers union, the other unions feel that this at least must also be their objective.

There is no sign that the big labor unions today, which have more power than any single economic group in the country, are going to pay attention to Johnson's pleas for restraint. In fact, the recent auto-strike settlement plainly indicated the opposite viewpoint to the economic world.

One Of America's Ironies

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

One of the ironies in America's sense of values is this: while it's a federal crime to threaten the life of a president it is not a federal crime to kill him.

For this reason Lee Harvey Oswald did not commit a federal offense when he assassinated President John F. Kennedy and, because he didn't, it was the Dallas police who arrested him for violating the Texas state law against murder.

So federal authorities had no jurisdiction over the case and hence no authority to investigate, to bring charges, or to prosecute the assassin in federal court.

Yet, it would have been a federal crime if Oswald had killed one of the Secret Service agents with Kennedy. Under existing law, in addition to Secret Service men, it is a federal crime to kill U.S. judges, district attorneys and their assistants, U.S. marshals, FBI agents, postal inspectors, prison guards, game wardens, narcotics agents.

In dealing with some of the major problems of the presidency Congress has exhibited such a strange reluctance that it comes under the head of inexcusable tardiness.

In all its history, for example, Congress has never passed a law to provide for a problem which has arisen before and could cause a monumental crisis in government.

This is the problem of presidential disability — how a disabled president passes on his duties to the vice president when he can't perform them and how he takes them back when he is able or thinks he is although others disagree.

Ever since President Dwight D. Eisenhower had a heart attack in 1955 Congress has tormented itself — more or less — with this dilemma but once again it had done nothing when it quit last Saturday.

Likewise it went home without making it a federal crime to kill a president even though the whole world saw how the Dallas police botched the handling of Oswald who was assassinated by Jack Ruby while in their custody.

Immediately after Kennedy's slaying in 1963 it seemed — for a while — that Congress would make it a federal crime to kill, or try to kill, or to conspire to kill a president and others in line to succeed him.

But this evaporated.

When the seven-man commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren finished its investigation of Kennedy's killing and issued its report on Sept. 28 it strongly recommended making it a federal offense to assassinate a president.

But Congress was in a rush to quit, which it did five days later. The subject is bound to come up again next year but there's no reason to think Congress will do any more then than it has in the past.

It seems odd that Congress has delayed taking this final step since it is now 47 years since the legislators first made it a federal crime to threaten a president.

Not even the most ardent proponent of the legislation believed it would eliminate crime. The goal was to hold gamblers up to public view and to reap some of the rich returns that gamblers harvested.

It aimed to accomplish this through a 10 per cent excise tax on the gross income of gamblers.

FORECASTS that the 10 per cent excise tax would raise $400 million annually proved far too optimistic. In its first four years, the tax raised a scant $33 million.

Moreover, the law required all those who take bets to register and buy a $50 tax stamp each year. Gamblers largely have chosen to ignore this section of the law although it provides a penalty of up to one year in prison and a $10,000 fine.

But gambling is one business where it does not pay to advertise.

Thus it was not surprising that Andrew Wisner's purchase of a gambling tax stamp won him wide exposure in a city of 8 million people. And less surprising that because of the exposure he decided to retire from the gambling profession.

Homecoming

By Gene Winski

Old Eyewash U. has advised us that homecoming weekend is approaching and a stellar list of activities has been arranged for same. From experience, we know what will happen if we join in the festivities . . .

Nostalgically, Old Graduate sets out to recapture the happy days of his youth. He dreams of all the old friends he will see and of all the events they will recall together. After he finally arrives at the sleepy town that encompasses alma mater, he is brought up short.

The old dorm, where he had so much fun for four years and where he even studied on occasion — it's gone. Where it stood now rises a multi-storied glass enclosure. Can this be old Eyewash? It must be; a sign identifies the structure as Eyewash U. Memorial Library. Whatever happened to the hallowed halls of learning, those beautiful ivy-covered Gothic buildings?

Well, the architecture may have changed, Old Graduate concedes, but surely the spirit hasn't. The spirit never changes at century-old Eyewash U.

SO OLD GRADUATE hastens to the student union, so bubbling over with anticipation he can hardly refrain from breaking into a run. Among all those people in the union, Old Graduate finally spots a familiar face — and it belongs to a fellow who was in that other fraternity we never mention in the polite circles.

But it's the only familiar one. So Old Graduate eagerly crosses the room and grasps the hand that accompanies the face, "Joe Piffle, you old son-of-gun. How are you? Gee it's been years since I've seen you." And they quickly become bosom buddies.

Old Graduate has been looking forward to the homecoming dance — that's why he left the family at home. But he learns to his distress that there are two homecoming dances, one for students and one for alumni. Who wants to spend the evening ogling middle-aged housewives? So Old Graduate stays in his motel room watching television.

The next morning is devoted to the dedication of a new hall. Dutifully, Old Graduate attends the ceremony. Prof. Throckmorton begins the dedicatory address. "Boy, he's still as dull as when he lectured on the Principles of Education," Old Graduate mumbles as he unobtrusively slips out a side door.

"SURELY everything will come to life now," Old Graduate thinks as he heads for the afternoon football game. He's a little embarrassed as the band strikes up the alma mater. "All hail to thee . . ." he sings, but beyond that memory fails him.

And of course he's sitting with Joe Piffle. And the game is not bad. Except that Joe keeps yelling "Chop 'em down" in his raucous voice. "Boy how I hate those guys," Joe says of the opposition —Eyewash's traditional rival. "Gosh," Old Graduate muses to himself, "some of the finest men I know went to that school."

At halftime, of course, they honored the homecoming queen. "Man what a peach," says Joe. "I could go for a dish like that." And Old Graduate, thinking of his 17-year-old daughter at home, concedes, "So could I."

And he decides he'd better be hitting the road.

. . . Well, that's homecoming. See you there!

An Extra Burden

Management Plunges Into Politics

By Victor Riesel

KANSAS CITY, MO. Indeed everything's up to date in Kansas City. Here, a few miles to the west of Harry Truman, businessmen are going into politics — but not as they once did, simply by donating money and advice to the grand old party of their choice.

Victor Riesel

Here, now, as in scores of other communities across the nation, they are going into the precincts, the political club houses, the door bell ringing business, political know-how seminars, and are studying special motion pictures on what fun it is to be in the biggest show of all.

It's all very serious — and it is giving labor's Committee on Political Education (COPE) the toughest run it has had for its money since the old CIO's Sidney Hillman made political action a nationwide proletarian pastime back in '43.

ONE OF THE MOST active new forces is the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM). The political observer cutting across country finds that NAM advance men have been there first, paving the way for one or another of the 11 national conference worker shop leaders now touring the country for the NAM. Most of them are executives for major corporations.

Their approach is scientific and hard-hitting. They're applying the great American genius for mass selling — and door-to-door salesmanship — to politics. Their objective is to get their young middle management men — of whom there are several milion — directly into precinct politics.

Frequently the workshops sponsored by the NAM, which has 16,000 affiliated manufacturers, show films. These movies are intriguing, professionally produced in sound and color in Cleveland studios.

The movie series is called "The Bill Boyntons Go into Politics." There are 400 prints being shown almost daily across the country.

THE THEME is straightforward. It's fun for young people to be in politics. The fictional Boyntons are a young couple. They show how politics in their region brings them new social circles, more friends and participation in significant developments in our country's life.

The first script tells of how this suburban couple, dissatisfied with local politics, decide to do something about it. They volunteer in the party of their choice, they work in election campaigns on their block, in their precinct and then in city, congressional, and election districts.

There are three other movies: "The Most Important Campaign in the World," in which the Boyntons manage a congressional campaign; "The Most Important Precinct in the World," in which the Boyntons explain how to get out the party vote where elections are won and lost; and "The Most Important Politician in the World." Here, the Boyntons explain the functions of the political party and why the citizen should fight for the one of his choice.

BUT A TRIP across country shows the observer that the NAM is not just concentrating on suburbia. The NAM is not taking for granted that the union member will listen only to the labor leader or to COPE. In many communities there are copies of the NAM Campaign Technique Manual in which there is a section on wooing the workers right in the factories.

This manual reveals what industry can do when it swings into action. It is sales technique at its most precise stage.

For example: "Objective: To acquaint each factory worker with the candidate," says the manual. "Timing: If an incumbent (is visiting the factory—V.R.), should be in advance of the campaign itself. If not . . . should be during the campaign.

"ASK FOR INFORMATION about times of shift changes so you can meet each employe as he comes to work . . . arrange for a tour of the factory by one of the workers and not a member of the management. Try to arrange this tour so that the candidate will be able to mingle with the workers. . . .

"Don't forget those on the night shift. They will be particularly impressed if the candidate shows enough interest to appear at the gate at midnight. . . ."

The NAM is even telling its people how to ring doorbells and labor's COPE will have to look to its laurels. The NAM manual, written by men who are steeped in the tradition of house - to - house sales, has thought of everything, including the 30-second length of the door step speech with four mentions of the candidates.

There are plans for phone ringer brigades — set up in special rooms with baby sitter kindergartens attached, so young mothers will turn out.

Yes, everything is up to date in Kansas City and scores of other cities, too. We'll soon see who handles politics best—the middle management man who is just beginning or the middle age business agent who's been at it for years.

Down Through The Years

From The Review Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO—Earl Ewing and Miss Doris Poole had the leads in the musical comedy, "The World's All Right", sponsored by the Ladies Aid Society of the First Methodist Church of Chester.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — Miss Sarah Lou Grewell of Chester was a delegate from the Hancock County Educational Association at the meeting of the West Virginia State Classroom Teachers Association at Keyser, W. Va.

Mrs. Harold Pipes was named president of the R. View Club during a meeting at the home of Mrs. Robert Massey of Montgomery Ave.

TEN YEARS AGO — Charles L. Frontz of Riverview St. was promoted to captain with the 283rd Engineers Construction Battalion in Germany.

Howard L. Lindell, former East Liverpool High School basketball coach, was promoted to the rank of commander in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Today In History

Today is Thursday, Oct. 8, the 282nd day of 1964. There are 84 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1871, the great Chicago fire began.

In 1903, the United States and China signed a commercial treaty.

In 1943, Allied patrols crossed the Volturno River in Italy.

In 1945, President Harry S. Truman announced that the United States would retain the secret of atomic bomb production and that only Canada would share the knowledge.

Ten years ago—At a Republican rally in Denver, President Dwight D. Eisenhower appealed to American voters to disregard their political affiliations and elect a GOP Congress.

Five years ago — Charles Van Doren telegraphed a House committee investigating charges of television quiz shows being rigged that at no time had he been supplied with questions or answers.

One year ago—West Germany ruled out joining French nuclear deterrent, and the Bonn government gave its support to the United States on a mixed missile fleet.

The Real Challenge

By David Lawrence

Two Significant Speeches Are Reviewed

In any attempt to find out what problems are presenting a real challenge in America today, not much information will be gleaned from a reading of the speeches in the presidential campaign. But a great deal will be learned from a careful perusal of recent utterances of some prominent men outside of public life who are intimately in touch with the economic trends of the country.

David Lawrence

Thus, for example, two significant speeches were made a few days ago, one by Joseph L. Block, chairman of the Inland Steel Co., and the other by Robert C. Tyson, chairman of the finance committee of the U. S. Steel Corp.

What they said goes to the heart of America's problem in dealing with poverty, social improvement and the furnishing of jobs to the increasing number of persons in the labor market each year.

Tyson's address, delivered before the 25th annual taxpayers conference of the Public Expenditure Survey of Wisconsin, was concerned with job creation and what stimulates it. He said:

"The need for economic growth and for jobs for the army of 'war babies' now entering the labor markets will only be satisfied by the growth of viable profitable industries.

"THERE CAN BE NO economic growth — no effective war on poverty — for any locality, state, or country without the prospect of profit, without greater private capital investment.

"Again, every locality and area is in competition for investment funds, and every investor seeks to maximize his return and minimize his risk.

"In this competition, the investor is the umpire, the final arbiter. He will seek out the superior climate for investment, the superior climate for profit. He has little other choice."

Block, whose company got into the headlines during the steel controversy of 1962 when it refused to go along with U.S. Steel's increase in prices, delivered his talk in Chicago at a regional meeting of the American Iron & Steel Institute.

He referred to some "misconceptions" about prices and said that "many people think that if one steel price goes up, it may be all right, but that something is very wrong if a number of prices go up."

He pointed out that there is a close relationship between steel products and that if the price of only one of them is raised, "the price structure may well be out of kilter."

Block pleaded for a better understanding by the public of the financial dilemmas faced currently by the steel industry. He said:

"This means a realization on the part of the public that steel earnings, in relation to investment, are inadequate. If the public was fully aware of this, there would not be such a hue and cry every time some steelmaker inferred that he might raise prices.

"Increases in prices, when supported by the demands of the market, are no less a legitimate method of improving profits than are increased volume and lowered costs."

BLOCK POINTED out further that the main challenge to the steel industry is in "making an adequate profit." He declared that "the clear fact is that we do not make a satisfactory return on the vast sums of money invested in the industry."

He said that, in return on its worth, steel was 37th in the list of 41 industries in 1963, and that steel's return was 7.2 per cent compared with 11.5 per cent for the average of all manufacturing industries. He added:

"Of course our profits will be better this year than last as they should with increased volume, and it is to this that some will point as proof of their belief that steel profits are satisfactory. But I contend that this is not the proper criterion. The true yardstick is return on invested capital and here we simply do not measure up."

Block referred to what he described as "the improved climate" in the steel industry's labor relations. He said that the next go-round of consultations between labor and management is not far off, and he thinks it is reasonable to expect a successful outcome.

He pointed out that steel's "average hourly rate last year was 26 cents an hour higher than the auto industry" and "higher than the auto workers will be getting three years hence."

President Johnson in his statement apropos of the settlement of the contract between General Motors and the auto workers union expressed the expectation that "other industries with profits below the high level in autos will not use the auto settlement as a pattern."

But each union is out to get as much as it can, and when a standard is set by the auto workers union, the other unions feel that this at least must also be their objective.

There is no sign that the big labor unions today, which have more power than any single economic group in the country, are going to pay attention to Johnson's pleas for restraint. In fact, the recent auto-strike settlement plainly indicated the opposite viewpoint to the economic world.

One Of America's Ironies

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON — One of the ironies in America's sense of values is this: while it's a federal crime to threaten the life of a president it is not a federal crime to kill him.

For this reason Lee Harvey Oswald did not commit a federal offense when he assassinated President John F. Kennedy and, because he didn't, it was the Dallas police who arrested him for violating the Texas state law against murder.

So federal authorities had no jurisdiction over the case and hence no authority to investigate, to bring charges, or to prosecute the assassin in federal court.

Yet, it would have been a federal crime if Oswald had killed one of the Secret Service agents with Kennedy. Under existing law, in addition to Secret Service men, it is a federal crime to kill U.S. judges, district attorneys and their assistants, U.S. marshals, FBI agents, postal inspectors, prison guards, game wardens, narcotics agents.

In dealing with some of the major problems of the presidency Congress has exhibited such a strange reluctance that it comes under the head of inexcusable tardiness.

In all its history, for example, Congress has never passed a law to provide for a problem which has arisen before and could cause a monumental crisis in government.

This is the problem of presidential disability — how a disabled president passes on his duties to the vice president when he can't perform them and how he takes them back when he is able or thinks he is although others disagree.

Ever since President Dwight D. Eisenhower had a heart attack in 1955 Congress has tormented itself — more or less — with this dilemma but once again it had done nothing when it quit last Saturday.

Likewise it went home without making it a federal crime to kill a president even though the whole world saw how the Dallas police botched the handling of Oswald who was assassinated by Jack Ruby while in their custody.

Immediately after Kennedy's slaying in 1963 it seemed — for a while — that Congress would make it a federal crime to kill, or try to kill, or to conspire to kill a president and others in line to succeed him.

But this evaporated.

When the seven-man commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren finished its investigation of Kennedy's killing and issued its report on Sept. 28 it strongly recommended making it a federal offense to assassinate a president.

But Congress was in a rush to quit, which it did five days later. The subject is bound to come up again next year but there's no reason to think Congress will do any more then than it has in the past.

It seems odd that Congress has delayed taking this final step since it is now 47 years since the legislators first made it a federal crime to threaten a president.

Where Fund Dollars Go

Helping boys prepare for manhood and leadership with the traditional American ideals is the objective of the Boy Scout program which the United Fund assists in the East Liverpool area.

Andy Parkes of Laura Ave., left, and Dale Jones of Pleasant Heights are among the 1,669 Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts in the Cherokee Boy Scout District, serving East Liverpool, Chester, Newell, West Point, Summitville and Wellsville.

There are 48 active units in the district — 17 Cub, 25 Scout and six Explorer posts.

The largest expenditure for the scout movement in the area is operating Camp McKinley near Lisbon and Camp Twin Spruce at Leesville Lake.

A total of 210 boys from 14 units attended camp the past summer.

Three trained men work full-time to direct and guide scouting, which is implemented on the troop level by many volunteer workers. The Columbiana Boy Scout Council, which also served the northern part of the county, maintains an office and staff at Lisbon.

The headquarters includes seven rooms of equipment, display cases, achievement records and offices of the three professional scouters, a secretary and registrar.

Camp McKinley is an overnight camp and training center for leaders. It is a farm once occupied by the grandfather of President McKinley.

Camp Twin Spruce is the summer training camp operated for eight weeks each year, employing eight adults and eight youth counselors along with a chaplain.

At these camps and in the regular meetings and weekend activities the youths are taught wood lore, survival tactics and practical skills, along with respect for their country and flag, love of fellow man and reverence to God.

These programs are partly financed through the United Fund which has allocated $13,500 this year for the area scout organization.

Fund officials and scout leaders who have watched the success of scouting here, point out the end results — boy turned man enriched by his scout experiences — can never be measured in dollars or cents, but in quality of leadership for the future and in satisfaction of service to others.

Chamber's Tour Attracts 50 For View Of Foliage

About 50 members of the Chamber of Commerce, their wives and guests attended a dinner Wednesday night at the Clarkson Grange Hall after the annual fall outing highlighted by a tour of rural areas to view autumn foliage.

Robert E. Boyce, Chamber president, presided at a brief program at the dinner, thanking the home economics committee of the Grange headed by Mrs. Edith Thompson for preparing and serving the meal.

The tour was one of the programs arranged by the Chamber's agriculture and conservation committee as a replacement for former "rural - urban" tours and dinners. Dr. A. A. Turner heads the committee.

The auto caravan left the Community Parking Lot in mid-afternoon. It traveed to Fredericktown, Negley and Rogers before the halt at Clarkson for dinner.

Texas won all 11 games last season, including a shocking 28-6 victory over Navy in the Cotton Bowl.

Now! '65 Chevrolet

'65 Chevrolet Impala Sport Coupe—with new Sweep-line roof.

If what you see moves you, wait'll you take the wheel

(V8's with—GRRRR!—up to 400 hp)

One look at those longer, wider lines tells you it's the kind of car you just couldn't buy before without getting into the higher price brackets. But one drive will tell you a lot more.

You've got your kind of engine going for you. There's an even half dozen available this year—anything you name from a quieter 6 to a V8 with the authority of 400 hp.

And the road feels like satin because our engineers came up with a new Full Coil suspension system, teamed it with a Wide-Stance design, and made our famous Jet-smooth ride even smoother and more stable.

On top of that, you've got the kind of space and comfort you'd expect to pay a lot more than a Chevrolet price for. And the kind of elegance, too. Like the look of fine walnut on the Impala's new instrument panel. The tailored wall panels under the frameless curved windows. And Body by Fisher craftsmanship.

Beginning to feel like it's your kind of car? There'll be no doubt about it when you drive the real thing at your Chevrolet dealer's.

Along The Election Trail

'Negative' Attitudes Cited In Key Midwest States

By ARTHUR EDSON

CHICAGO (AP)—This may be the strangest of all presidential elections.

It will be — at least here in the decisive Midwest — an election in which many voters say they don't like either Lyndon B. Johnson or Barry Goldwater.

It will be an election in which, although the polls show Johnson doing unusually well in this area, a surprisingly large number of voters concentrate on Goldwater: They're either energetically for, or dead set against, the Republican challenger.

It could be an election that, ironically, may be decided by those so listless or uncertain or disgusted they won't vote.

Listen to what the Midwesterners are saying:

In Fargo, N.D., Oscar Hanson, 72, a retired farmer, sums up his feelings. "I have been a Republican all my life, but this year I'm on edge," Hanson says. "There is something about Goldwater I don't like. I ain't saying I will vote Democratic, but I might."

In Racine, Wis., Susan J. Pfeiffer is certain that Goldwater is the last hope for local government. "A vote for Lyndon Johnson," she says, "is a vote for socialism."

In Springfield, Mo., Charmae Pollock, who works for a health studio, says:

"I think if we had a write-in candidate this time he'd win."

Out here they're accenting the negative. And the Midwest may be the best cross-section we have.

From Ohio to Kansas to the Dakotas, these 12 states show astonishing variety within and among themselves.

Within these states are five of the nation's largest cities, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis, Milwaukee.

Traditionally, Republicans do well here.

In 1960, when the Midwest had 153 electoral votes, Richard M. Nixon won this area, 82-72.

In 1964, Goldwater has four states he considers vital to his cause, and two of them, Ohio and Illinois, are in the Midwest. The others are California and Texas.

Anyone who can win big in this area has taken a giant stride toward the 270 electoral votes needed to capture the White House, and so Johnson and Goldwater come here again and agan.

This reporter has toured the area talking politics from Clever, Mo., to Ann Arbor, Mich., from Minneapolis to Stratford, Ohio. Other reporters for the Associated Press and member newspapers have interviewed voters in each of the 12 states.

These highly informal surveys, taken independently of each other, all produce the same impressions:

This may be a vital battleground in a vital election, but many voters neither notice nor care — and some who do care have trouble working up enthusiasm for either candidate.

But let's go out and get the feel for ourselves, and a good place to start is with dedicated partisans in Milwaukee.

James Jackson is a 79-year-old Negro cab driver, lively, talkative, opinionated.

"I'm not particularly for Mr. Johnson," he says, "but I'm a Democrat and I'm not going to change."

Though not particularly for Johnson, he's particularly against Goldwater, in words ungrammitcal but positive:

"He's backslided on his own words. If he was in there now, do you know where Cuba would be today? In the Pacific Ocean, that's where. We don't need no man like that for no president."

Now for the other extreme.

The homes in the 900 block of North 72nd Street in Milwaukee are neat, affluent-looking, well-loved.

One has a "This house is sold on Goldwater" sign on its lawn, a "Goldwater for President" sticker on its door, and a large U.S. flag whipping in the brisk breeze.

A huge man, 6 feet and big all over, has just visited the house, to lend a book.

"I belong to the John Birch Society," he said, even before he identified himself as "Norman E. Wynn, in the hearing aid business at 205 East Wisconsin."

A reporter mentioned that the polls show Goldwater trailing.

"He is like hell," Wynn said. "I've talked to hundreds of people, and the polls simply aren't right."

Wynn would like more details on Bobby G. Baker and Billie Sol Estes, and he said: "If Johnson is a Christian, and a believer in God, he'll say, 'Let's bring things out in the open and let the chips fall where they may.' "

Now to a more rural setting.

Norman Len, a real estate man in Perrysburg, Ohio, is a Republican who voted for Nixon.

"We don't have a real choice this year," Len said. As a onetime insurance man, Len doesn't like Goldwater's stand on Social Security, "But to tell you the truth, I don't know whether I want to vote for Johnson or not."

Ben Mangiopane of Shadyside, Ohio, does a lot of traveling in his table glassware business. He looks upon himself as an independent, having voted for Dwight D. Eisenhower and then for John F. Kennedy.

"In the nine months Johnson has been there he has proved he can get things done," Mangiopane said. "I don't see anything radically wrong with this country. Sure, there's Viet Nam and Cuba. But neither Mr. Goldwater or Mr. Johnson is going to solve that — and no president will in 20 years."

In the hundreds of interviews the most surprising — "disturbing" may be a better word — are those who say they can support neither man.

This may explain why the polls are being looked at suspiciously, even though they show the President doing startingly well.

Not many of those interviewed mentioned civil rights unless the reporter brought it up. But an important Democratic leader in this area said: "This backlash frightens me. We have tried to minimize it, but I'm not sure we can minimize it. I don't think anybody can read this thing yet."

On such intangibles will Republicans base their hopes in their final drive for support in the Midwest, where the attitudes are so strangely negative, in all directions.

Firemen Fill Leader Posts

Jack Clutter was named president of the Liverpool Township West volunteer fire department at a meeting Tuesday night at the LaCroft fire station.

Clutter succeeds Milton Kountz, who resigned as president, trustee and captain due to other commitments.

Edwin Emmerling was named vice president until the election in November, and Alfred Copestick was appointed trustee. The captain post was not filled.

Robert Mikeals was accepted as a second class fireman.

The department changed meeting dates from Wednesdays to alternate Tuesdays.

Open house was held Tuesday and Wednesday nights in observance of Fire Prevention Week. Firemen presented instructions to a baby sitters class on what to do in event of a fire.

An old auto was burned on the station lot to demonstrate various extinguishers.

Residents have been urged to inspect their home heating systems, to make sure flues and chimneys are clear and insulated and blower motors oiled. Firemen said a furnace man should check systems before winter.

In Roman Catholic Offices

Proposals Heard To Put Laymen Alongside Priests

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council today heard revolutionary proposals to put laymen alongside priests in Roman Catholic Church offices and to create senates of laymen to advise their bishops.

These proposals were made as the council fathers in St. Peter's Basilica debated an historic schema attempting to define a wider role for nonordained men and women in the life of the church.

Almost all 18 speakers today blistered the schema as inadequate and unacceptable in the modern world.

Led by North American bishops, a number of council members at the start of the debate Wednesday complained that the schema on the Apostolate of The Laity was wordy, vague, inadequate in its approach and patronizing in its tone.

"As far as I can tell, about all it does is say that laymen are nice people," said one Roman Catholic layman familiar with the schema.

Two American members of the commission that drew up the document, Bishops William E. Cousins of Milwaukee, Wis., and Allen J. Babcock of Grand Rapids, Mich., said they had expected the heavy criticism. "This is the only one of the council schemata that has not been in the hands of the council fathers before," said Bishop Cousins. "We had no specific suggestions from the fathers to work from.

"When the criticisms are made and when suggestions are proposed, we can then go back to work and make the schema more specific and more the way the council wants it."

A council expert told newsmen there was a wide feeling that the present version was not acceptable but the council could not sidestep the issue any longer.

"The lay people expect the council to come out with a statement on the laity in today's world," he said.

There is a growing view in the church that an increasing number of nonordained men and women with an active interest in their faith are awaiting an authoritative statement on how they can play a more active role as Catholics, both in the Church and in the world.

UVALDE, Tex. (AP) — Project Mohole engineers, seeking nothing but a dry hole for testing equipment, were surprised Wednesday when they discovered oil.

The unexpected oil provided excitement but geologists said the discovery was of the noncommercial variety in that it probably could produce no more than 1½ barrels of oil daily.

The long-range objective of the $50-million Mohole project is to drill through the earth's crust and determine the physical properties of the earth's mantle.

discovered seated in his parked car on the Horn Switch property, he related.

Anderson was hospitalized with his wounds. Officer Mooney said Dressander admitted the cutting to him and Lt. William E. McDaniel.

"It was over politics; they both were drinking," he added.

Anderson told the court he never had seen Dressander before the two encountered each other Saturday night.

"We got into an argument and I struck him," he said. "Later, on his way to the restroom, he shoved against me. I got off my stool and walked over to the booth. That's when I got stabbed."

Dressander said Anderson took offense at the Goldwater button he was wearing. He said he did not retaliate the first time Anderson struck him, but left the bar and sat in a booth.

He denied bumping Anderson deliberately and said he stumbled against the other man as he headed for the restroom. Dressander said he was removing a splinter from his thumb with his knife when Anderson walked up to the booth and struck him.

Atty. W. S. Foulks, who employs Dressander part - time, entered a plea in mitigation, calling the defendant "a peaceful citizen."

"In a way I am responsible for this because I gave him the political badge he was wearing," the attorney commented.

Auto Shoved Sideways In City Collision

The Goodman auto, a compact, was northbound on Lincoln and the Smith car was moving west on Jackman. The Goodman girl said Mrs. Smith's car came out of Jackman St., striking her car and shoving it across the street. Mrs. Smith said she did not see the other auto until too late to stop.

In Roman Catholic Offices

Proposals Heard To Put Laymen Alongside Priests

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council today heard revolutionary proposals to put laymen alongside priests in Roman Catholic Church offices and to create senates of laymen to advise their bishops.

These proposals were made as the council fathers in St. Peter's Basilica debated an historic schema attempting to define a wider role for nonordained men and women in the life of the church.

Almost all 18 speakers today blistered the schema as inadequate and unacceptable in the modern world.

Led by North American bishops, a number of council members at the start of the debate Wednesday complained that the schema on the Apostolate of The Laity was wordy, vague, inadequate in its approach and patronizing in its tone.

"As far as I can tell, about all it does is say that laymen are nice people," said one Roman Catholic layman familiar with the schema.

Two American members of the commission that drew up the document, Bishops William E. Cousins of Milwaukee, Wis., and Allen J. Babcock of Grand Rapids, Mich., said they had expected the heavy criticism. "This is the only one of the council schemata that has not been in the hands of the council fathers before," said Bishop Cousins. "We had no specific suggestions from the fathers to work from.

"When the criticisms are made and when suggestions are proposed, we can then go back to work and make the schema more specific and more the way the council wants it."

A council expert told newsmen there was a wide feeling that the present version was not acceptable but the council could not sidestep the issue any longer.

"The lay people expect the council to come out with a statement on the laity in today's world," he said.

There is a growing view in the church that an increasing number of nonordained men and women with an active interest in their faith are awaiting an authoritative statement on how they can play a more active role as Catholics, both in the Church and in the world.

Engineers Surprised When They Strike Oil

discovered seated in his parked car on the Horn Switch property, he related.

Anderson was hospitalized with his wounds. Officer Mooney said Dressander admitted the cutting to him and Lt. William E. McDaniel.

"It was over politics; they both were drinking," he added.

Anderson told the court he never had seen Dressander before the two encountered each other Saturday night.

"We got into an argument and I struck him," he said. "Later, on his way to the restroom, he shoved against me. I got off my stool and walked over to the booth. That's when I got stabbed."

Dressander said Anderson took offense at the Goldwater button he was wearing. He said he did not retaliate the first time Anderson struck him, but left the bar and sat in a booth.

He denied bumping Anderson deliberately and said he stumbled against the other man as he headed for the restroom. Dressander said he was removing a splinter from his thumb with his knife when Anderson walked up to the booth and struck him.

Atty. W. S. Foulks, who employs Dressander part - time, entered a plea in mitigation, calling the defendant "a peaceful citizen."

"In a way I am responsible for this because I gave him the political badge he was wearing," the attorney commented.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: A few days ago I did something horrible. I slapped a stranger's child right across the face.

While shopping in the supermarket, my 4-year-old son, Tom, broke away and began to chase around. I threatened, scolded and even shook him but it did no good. He continued to run the aisles, whooping and hollering.

When my back was turned a youngster sailed into me with a shopping cart. Without looking, I wheeled around and slapped him across the face. To my horror, it was not Tom, but another little boy the same size.

The child's mother rushed over and shouted, "Keep your hands off my son or I'll give you what you gave him." I was so ashamed I apologized for five minutes. Today I learned the woman's name. I'm tempted to telephone her and apologize again. My husband says, "Skip it." What do you think?—K.D.S.

Dear K.D.S.: I agree with your husband.

May I suggest, however, that you go to the public library and get some books on child-rearing. A slap across the face is no way to deal with an unruly child in a supermarket—or anywhere else. You need help, mother, and I earnestly hope you get it soon.

Lucky Loser

Dear Ann: I'm 26 years old, attractive and have been self-supporting for six years. My problem? I have the world's lousiest luck.

At 16 I fell in love with a married man. Nick was twice my age, owned the cafe where I worked and he was good to me. Nick kept promising to work things out with his wife but after four years I decided it never would happen, so I quit him.

After Nick I began to see a man who was separated from his wife. We lived together three years before I realized he was using his religion and his children to stall me.

My next sweetheart was a man who told me his wife was in a mental hospital. Every few months he'd say she was coming home "next month" and he'd start divorce proceedings.

I learned last week she works at the hospital and is in fine health.

Why am I so unlucky? I want to get married but I don't know what kind of a husband to look for. Can you help me?—WISHBONE.

-:-

Dear Bone: Stop looking for husbands and try a single man for a change. Your "luck" might improve.

Mutual Trust

Dear Ann: I was happy to read your advice to the mother who snooped in her daughter's diary, bureau drawers and pocketbook.

My parents never pry or ask questions, but they know ALL about me because I tell them. Our relationship is based on friendship and respect. I value their opinions and seek their advice. If my folks had spied on me and listened in on my telephone conversations I would have cut them OUT instead of IN.

Now that I'm 18 I find myself making decisions on the basis of what I feel is right—not what I can get away with. The girl in our crowd who does the most lying and has the loosest morals is the one with the snoopiest mother.

I feel lucky to have been brought up in a home where there is trust, confidence and love.—ROBIN.

-:-

Dear Robin: Thank you for more evidence that if you give children something lofty to shoot at they'll aim high. I received hundreds of letters from teen-agers but yours said it best.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BPW Group Gets Data On City's Survey

Questionnaires to be used in the survey of the City Planning Commission were distributed when members of the Business and Professional Women's Club met with Dan Ziegler and Paul Sisk of Carroll Hill Associates Tuesday night in the office of Mayor Merrill Hall.

The initial survey will be conducted Oct. 15 from 7 to 8:30 p. m. in the downtown shopping district. The purpose of the questionnaire will be to help determine the capital improvement needs, encourage people to acquire "open space zoning" and see if ordinances are necessary.

A comprehensive plan will touch on most every type of place, house and business. The economic study will also include North Hancock County Liverpool Township and surrounding townships.

When the study is completed, recommendations will be made to the Council which will evaluate the plan and consider the recommendations.

Zeigler said the interviews will take only a few minutes and the questions will be simple, such as place of residence, time of arrival, what mode of transportation used, and what type of shopping preferred.

Another survey will be conducted Oct. 17 and later a home survey.

Those attending the session were Mrs. Helen Moore, chairman, Mrs. Pat McKinnon, president, Mrs. Mary Walrath, vice chairman, Mrs. Eileen Brown, Mrs. Ethel Wambaugh, Miss Joan Witt and Mrs. Virginia Manypenny.

The state of Nebraska derives its name from an Otoe Indian word, Ne-brath-ka, meaning "shallow water" and referring to the Platte River.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: As I take diapers out of the washer, I shake each one and lay it across my left arm. If diapers have folding lines on them, I arrange the same lines together as I lay them across my arm. This cuts time in half at the clothesline. Then I hang five diapers together, another five, and on down the line. When I take the diapers down, I take the first five and turn the tops to the next five, and so on, until I have removed all of them.

This way, the diapers are all together, straight, and smooth. They are ready to be laid on a flat surface to fold and I don't have to keep reaching for another diaper, smoothing it out, and then folding it.

ANN LACHNEY

DEAR HELOISE: Instead of throwing away rubber spatulas when they become ragged and the rubber starts breaking off . . . simply trim the spatula with a pair of good scissors and you will have a new one . . . a little smaller, but useable again.

GRACE RASCH

DEAR HELOISE: I put a knitted coaster (the type used on drinking glasses) on the bottom of my husband's shaving cream to prevent rust on the sink when he forgets to put the cream away.

EVELYN JENKINS

DEAR HELOISE: So, all right, I cleaned my kitchen drawers this morning first thing.

I went you one better though. I put a date on the clean paper when I put it in the bottom of the drawer. I bet we would all be amazed how often (or how seldom) we clean those drawers when we look at the previous date!

M.M.

DEAR HELOISE: When making pie crust for pies, I always save the little extra pastry left over and add cake coloring to match the filling. I make it into little balls and space them about two inches apart around the edge of the crust. This really makes for a cutie pie.

MARGARET ZEALY

DEAR HELOISE: When I have half a grapefruit to put in the refrigerator, I cap the cut side with a plastic lid from a coffee can. It just fits.

RUBY

DEAR FRIENDS: When you buy a box of something that says "Press in here to open. . ." t'aint worth it.

Pick up an opener and use it on the box. Works beautifully.

Save those fingernails. You might just need them for something else!

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE: If you are tired of untangling rubber bands and untwisting metal bands on food in plastic bags for the freezer, try using bobby pins.

After pressing the air out of the bag, I fold the two sides inward to the width of a bobby pin and then slide the pin on the bag.

And it's just a snap to take off!

NANCY JANE

DEAR HELOISE: After struggling for years to clean baked-on cheese from frying pans (after making cheeseburgers), I finally had an inspiration . . . use the kitchen scissors to make rounds of those square cheese slices!

The remnants of cheese can be wrapped and saved for spaghetti sauce or what-have-you.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: A few days ago I did something horrible. I slapped a stranger's child right across the face.

While shopping in the supermarket, my 4-year-old son, Tom, broke away and began to chase around. I threatened, scolded and even shook him but it did no good. He continued to run the aisles, whooping and hollering.

When my back was turned a youngster sailed into me with a shopping cart. Without looking, I wheeled around and slapped him across the face. To my horror, it was not Tom, but another little boy the same size.

The child's mother rushed over and shouted, "Keep your hands off my son or I'll give you what you gave him." I was so ashamed I apologized for five minutes. Today I learned the woman's name. I'm tempted to telephone her and apologize again. My husband says, "Skip it." What do you think?—K.D.S.

-:-

Dear K.D.S.: I agree with your husband.

May I suggest, however, that you go to the public library and get some books on child-rearing. A slap across the face is no way to deal with an unruly child in a supermarket—or anywhere else. You need help, mother, and I earnestly hope you get it soon.

Lucky Loser

Dear Ann: I'm 26 years old, attractive and have been self-supporting for six years. My problem? I have the world's lousiest luck.

At 16 I fell in love with a married man. Nick was twice my age, owned the cafe where I worked and he was good to me. Nick kept promising to work things out with his wife but after four years I decided it never would happen, so I quit him.

After Nick I began to see a man who was separated from his wife. We lived together three years before I realized he was using his religion and his children to stall me.

My next sweetheart was a man who told me his wife was in a mental hospital. Every few months he'd say she was coming home "next month" and he'd start divorce proceedings.

I learned last week she works at the hospital and is in fine health.

Why am I so unlucky? I want to get married but I don't know what kind of a husband to look for. Can you help me?—WISHBONE.

-:-

Dear Bone: Stop looking for husbands and try a single man for a change. Your "luck" might improve.

Mutual Trust

Dear Ann: I was happy to read your advice to the mother who snooped in her daughter's diary, bureau drawers and pocketbook.

My parents never pry or ask questions, but they know ALL about me because I tell them. Our relationship is based on friendship and respect. I value their opinions and seek their advice. If my folks had spied on me and listened in on my telephone conversations I would have cut them OUT instead of IN.

Now that I'm 18 I find myself making decisions on the basis of what I feel is right—not what I can get away with. The girl in our crowd who does the most lying and has the loosest morals is the one with the snoopiest mother.

I feel lucky to have been brought up in a home where there is trust, confidence and love.—ROBIN.

-:-

Dear Robin: Thank you for more evidence that if you give children something lofty to shoot at they'll aim high. I received hundreds of letters from teen-agers but yours said it best.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BPW Group Gets Data On City's Survey

Questionnaires to be used in the survey of the City Planning Commission were distributed when members of the Business and Professional Women's Club met with Dan Ziegler and Paul Sisk of Carroll Hill Associates Tuesday night in the office of Mayor Merrill Hall.

The initial survey will be conducted Oct. 15 from 7 to 8:30 p. m. in the downtown shopping district. The purpose of the questionnaire will be to help determine the capital improvement needs, encourage people to acquire "open space zoning" and see if ordinances are necessary.

A comprehensive plan will touch on most every type of place, house and business. The economic study will also include North Hancock County Liverpool Township and surrounding townships.

When the study is completed, recommendations will be made to the Council which will evaluate the plan and consider the recommendations.

Zeigler said the interviews will take only a few minutes and the questions will be simple, such as place of residence, time of arrival, what mode of transportation used, and what type of shopping preferred.

Another survey will be conducted Oct. 17 and later a home survey.

Those attending the session were Mrs. Helen Moore, chairman, Mrs. Pat McKinnon, president, Mrs. Mary Walrath, vice chairman, Mrs. Eileen Brown, Mrs. Ethel Wambaugh, Miss Joan Witt and Mrs. Virginia Manypenny.

The state of Nebraska derives its name from an Otoe Indian word, Ne-brath-ka, meaning "shallow water" and referring to the Platte River.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: As I take diapers out of the washer, I shake each one and lay it across my left arm. If diapers have folding lines on them, I arrange the same lines together as I lay them across my arm. This cuts time in half at the clothesline. Then I hang five diapers together, another five, and on down the line. When I take the diapers down, I take the first five and turn the tops to the next five, and so on, until I have removed all of them.

This way, the diapers are all together, straight, and smooth. They are ready to be laid on a flat surface to fold and I don't have to keep reaching for another diaper, smoothing it out, and then folding it.

ANN LACHNEY

DEAR HELOISE: Instead of throwing away rubber spatulas when they become ragged and the rubber starts breaking off . . . simply trim the spatula with a pair of good scissors and you will have a new one . . . a little smaller, but useable again.

GRACE RASCH

DEAR HELOISE: I put a knitted coaster (the type used on drinking glasses) on the bottom of my husband's shaving cream to prevent rust on the sink when he forgets to put the cream away.

EVELYN JENKINS

DEAR HELOISE: So, all right, I cleaned my kitchen drawers this morning first thing.

I went you one better though. I put a date on the clean paper when I put it in the bottom of the drawer. I bet we would all be amazed how often (or how seldom) we clean those drawers when we look at the previous date!

M.M.

DEAR HELOISE: When making pie crust for pies, I always save the little extra pastry left over and add cake coloring to match the filling. I make it into little balls and space them about two inches apart around the edge of the crust. This really makes for a cutie pie.

MARGARET ZEALY

DEAR HELOISE: When I have half a grapefruit to put in the refrigerator, I cap the cut side with a plastic lid from a coffee can. It just fits.

RUBY

DEAR FRIENDS: When you buy a box of something that says "Press in here to open. . ." t'aint worth it.

Pick up an opener and use it on the box. Works beautifully.

Save those fingernails. You might just need them for something else!

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE: If you are tired of untangling rubber bands and untwisting metal bands on food in plastic bags for the freezer, try using bobby pins.

After pressing the air out of the bag, I fold the two sides inward to the width of a bobby pin and then slide the pin on the bag.

And it's just a snap to take off!

NANCY JANE

DEAR HELOISE: After struggling for years to clean baked-on cheese from frying pans (after making cheeseburgers), I finally had an inspiration . . . use the kitchen scissors to make rounds of those square cheese slices!

The remnants of cheese can be wrapped and saved for spaghetti sauce or what-have-you.

Firemen To Buy Clearance Lights For Newell Vehicles

Plans were approved to purchase clearance lights for all three emergency vehicles in the interest of safety when Newell volunteer firemen met Monday night at the station.

Firemen feel their trucks are not distinguishable enough at night, especially when returning from fires.

New equipment received recently included 12 flare pots for highway emergencies, six new shovels for fighting grass fires, 100 feet of 1½-inch hose, and 200 feet of three - eighths-inch rope.

Five firemen attended the fire training school at Crucible Steel Co. in Midland Saturday. They were Chief Earl Flesch, Hillman May, Dick Rayburn, Robert Mercer and Gene Lytton. Four others attended a fire school in Jewett Sept. 20-27.

Chief Flesch was in charge of practice drills and maintenance.

It was announced the fire hall has been rented to the Newell Junior Women's Club Oct. 17 for a square dance.

No special activities are planned during observance of Fire Prevention Week. The next meeting will be Oct. 19. The department will host the Hancock County Firemen's Association Oct. 21 when state candidates in the Nov. 3 general election will speak. Refreshments will be served by Newell firemen.

$100 Donated By Group In Beaver Local

A contribution of $100 to the Beaver Local Music Parents Association uniform fund was authorized by the Beaver Local Boosters Cub at a meeting Tuesday night at the IBOP headquarters.

About 20 attended the meeting at which Mrs. George Green of near Glenmoor was named secretary, succeeding Mrs. Mildred Hoppel, who resigned.

The Boosters also voted to support the proposed Beaver Local levy in the Nov. 3 election.

Gail Williams of the Athletic Association reported the association has authorized $212 for payment for football players insurance and will pay salaries of athletic directors, coaches, faculty manager and cheerleader advisers. In the past the salaries have been paid by the Board of Education.

The association is also studying the possible revision of sharing Beaver Local - East Liverpool gate receipts.

It was reported new uniforms purchased by the club may be delivered later this week. Ninety uniforms were obtained for $1,600 by the club in August.

Meat Industry Cooperates To Cut Calories

It appears that your dietitian will not have to join the Meat Cutters Union after all. Some time back, when the butcher did not cut off the excess fat to my liking before grinding the round steak, I said im petuously, "Here, give me the knife, let me cut it off. . .you can still weigh in the fat." Startled, he quickly countered, "Oh, no, you don't belong to Local 555!"

Ida Jean Kain

The livestock and meat industry, well aware that many people are making an effort to restrict the amount of fat in their diet, is concentrating on the production of animals with a minimum of excess fat.

—:—

YOU WILL be interested in learning that pigs are required to take calisthenics plus isometric contraction exercises, or what amounts to the same thing, in order to get something to eat.

In an experiment at Oklahoma State University at Stillwater, one group of pigs had to climb stairs built at a 56 degree angle to reach their feed which had been purposely located on raised platforms. The pigs ate with their front feet resting on the raised platform and their hind legs resting on the stair steps.

The National Housing Center informs me that a 30 to 35 degree angle is the average, and that 50 degrees is the critical angle for placing a ladder. This gives you an idea of what the pigs had to go through to get something to eat.

The researchers call this a method of "self-limited" feed restriction, achieved by making the feed difficult to reach. In the experiment there were two groups, of course — the limited-fed pigs, and "the full - fed pigs which were allowed to make hogs of themselves in the more traditional manner."

—:—

RESULTS: It was found that feed intake was restricted to approximately 80 per cent of full feed by the "self-limited" method. This reducing of feed intake significantly decreased average daily gain. The per cent of the lean cuts, trimmed ham and loin were significantly increased and backfat thickness decreased by this method of feed restriction.

Pigs fed standing on the stairway is just one more way the meat industry is attempting to produce pork with more lean and less fat.

We, the consumers, profit; for we get more lean meat for the money. The repair and replacement nutrients are furnished in the lean. . .with the most calories being furnished in the fat. We thank the meat industry!

By the way, in trimming fat from your meat, every half ounce left off subtracts 100 calories!

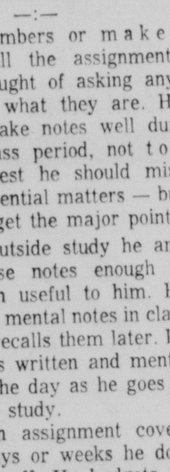

The Revised Calorie Chart lists the calories in lean as well as in marbled meats. Be sure to send a stamped, self - addressed, long envelope. Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, care of The Review. Postcard requests cannot be answered.

Study Suggestions Offered Students

Any pupils or student would like to get better results from his efforts at learning. Here are a few suggestions: Try to make every moment in the classroom count. The more alert you are to what is said there, the less time and effort you will need to expend outside of class. An occasional youth does so well in class that he doesn't have to do much "homework." Even the assigned outside reading may grow easier because of what he absorbed in the classroom.

Dr. Garry Myers

A good student doesn't let himself daydream. He pays strict attention in class to everything there. As he leaves a classroom, he evaluates his success on how well he could have answered every question asked.

If he has the opportunity, he asks a question during the class period in order to clarify concepts he was not sure about. Or he may find out about this from other sources.

—:—

HE remembers or makes notes of all the assignments without thought of asking anybody later what they are. He learns to take notes well during the class period, not too many — lest he should miss hearing essential matters — but enough to get the major points.

During outside study he amplifies these notes enough to make them useful to him. He also makes mental notes in class and often recalls them later. He reviews his written and mental notes for the day as he goes at his outside study.

When an assignment covers several days or weeks he does not put it off. He budgets his time so as to have this assignment completed when due. He has a regular time and place for study, making a schedule with a budgeted period of time for each subject; and he sticks to his plan. He selects one evening for study out of each weekend; otherwise, Monday may be his worst day.

HE GETS away from radio, TV and family conversation, if he can; otherwise he trains himself to ignore them. Before beginning to study, he has assembled all his materials and tools. He doesn't let himself "fiddle around."

When reading from a text or reference book, he reads the entire selection through to get the general drift, then reads it more carefully and turns it briefly into his own words. He learns to read well. If he finds he reads laboriously, he tries to find ways to read better.

He may profit from the help of a reading expert or reading clinic. He can help himself by daily practice of a few minutes reading from materials much easier than his school or college textbooks.

My bulletins, "Tips for Students", "Parents and the Child's Homework" and "Home Helps for Poor Readers I and II" may be secured by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Escapee, Kidnaper Of Policeman, Caught

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP)— A prisoner who escaped and kidnaped a police officer after being picked up at Mason City, Iowa, in connection with car thefts at Newark, Ohio, and Mandan, N.D., has been captured here.

Thomas James Killian, 21, of Minneapolis Wednesday kidnaped Capt. Melford S. Newburg, 53, officials said, but let him go 15 miles north of Mason City. He was captured at a motel here later Wednesday after holding lawmen at bay with a revolver for several minutes.

ELHS BAND SIGN. This 10-foot-long sign, slated for appearance on national television Nov. 26, will receive its public debut with the East Liverpool High School Band Friday night at the homecoming football game at Patterson Field. The banner was constructed to publicize the city at out-of-town performances, Vincent Maola, director, said. It will be seen on television when the band appears in a parade at Philadelphia Thanksgiving Day and again Nov. 29 when the band plays at the Pittsburgh Steelers-St. Louis Cardinals football game at Pittsburgh. Shown are Linda Tice, left, and Marilyn Smith. Cost of the sign is being paid by civic groups and pottery firms. Other contributions may be mailed to Maola, payable to the "Band Fund" at the high school.

2 Girls Who Trailed Beatles To London On Way Home

LONDON, (AP) — The two Cleveland, Ohio, girls who slipped off to Britain to worship the Beatles were on their way home today with a new enthusiasm. They've switched to the Rolling Stones.

Teen-agers Janice Hawkins and Martha Schendel were picked up in London Wednesday and spent the night under benevolent guard at the West End Police Station.

U.S. Consul Henry Lilienfield met them after breakfast this morning, before driving them to London Airport to board a plane for New York.

The girls, both 16, vanished from their homes Sept. 17, a day after the mop-haired Beatles performed in Cleveland. Their disappearance touched off a hunt on both sides of the Atlantic.

A policewoman spotted Janice Wednesday on crowded Oxford Street. She told police they would find Martha in an apartment the two had rented about a mile from the city's west end entertainment center.

The girls were unharmed and happy because they had visited Liverpool, the Beatles' hometown.

"Apparently they've been touring around—all quite innocent—following their favorite beat groups," a Scotland Yard inspector said.

"They've switched allegiance to the Rolling Stones, another pop group over here. The Rolling Stones have a lot more hair, you known, enough to stuff a mattress with."

The Rolling Stones are scheduled to visit Cleveland soon.

Police said the girls had $1,400 left.

In Cleveland, Mrs. Isabel Schendel, Martha's mother, said her daughter had taken nearly $2,000 set aside for college to finance the trip.

Mrs. E. W. Klein, Janice's guardian, said: "I don't think a girl 16 should be left alone in this country, let alone in a strange country. It is very strange they left in the first place with no reason at all except those silly old Beatles."

When Cleveland police asked the British to check into the girls' disappearance, the home office at first said it had no record they had arrived. Later it found they went through London Airport's immigration office under their own names on Sept. 18.

Every police station in Britain got pictures of the pair. At one stage of the search even the Beatles were asked to make a personal appeal for Janice and Martha.

But the Beatles declined, perhaps afraid more of their female fans would vanish until they called them.

Charles E. Blankenship, 43, of 145 Haywood St. was in "poor" condition at City Hospital after an apparent heart seizure suffered at 5:47 a. m. today while at the wheel of his halted auto at E. 6th St. and Broadway.

Officers said Blankenship drove downtown to take his daughter to work and halted the car at E. 6th and Broadway to allow her to alight. As she started to leave, she saw the headlights blinking on her father's car. She was walking toward the car to check when the door opened in the car and Blankenship fell to the street, police said.

Meat Industry Cooperates To Cut Calories

It appears that your dietitian will not have to join the Meat Cutters Union after all. Some time back, when the butcher did not cut off the excess fat to my liking before grinding the round steak, I said impetuously, "Here, give me the knife, let me cut it off. . .you can still weigh in the fat." Startled, he quickly countered, "Oh, no, you don't belong to Local 555!"

Ida Jean Kain

The livestock and meat industry, well aware that many people are making an effort to restrict the amount of fat in their diet, is concentrating on the production of animals with a minimum of excess fat.

—:—

YOU WILL be interested in learning that pigs are required to take calisthenics plus isometric contraction exercises, or what amounts to the same thing, in order to get something to eat.

In an experiment at Oklahoma State University at Stillwater, one group of pigs had to climb stairs built at a 56 degree angle to reach their feed which had been purposely located on raised platforms. The pigs ate with their front feet resting on the raised platform and their hind legs resting on the stair steps.

The National Housing Center informs me that a 30 to 35 degree angle is the average, and that 50 degrees is the critical angle for placing a ladder. This gives you an idea of what the pigs had to go through to get something to eat.

The researchers call this a method of "self-limited" feed restriction, achieved by making the feed difficult to reach. In the experiment there were two groups, of course — the limited-fed pigs, and "the full - fed pigs which were allowed to make hogs of themselves in the more traditional manner."

—:—

RESULTS: It was found that feed intake was restricted to approximately 80 per cent of full feed by the "self-limited" method. This reducing of feed intake significantly decreased average daily gain. The per cent of the lean cuts, trimmed ham and loin were significantly increased and backfat thickness decreased by this method of feed restriction.

Pigs fed standing on the stairway is just one more way the meat industry is attempting to produce pork with more lean and less fat.

We, the consumers, profit; for we get more lean meat for the money. The repair and replacement nutrients are furnished in the lean. . .with the most calories being furnished in the fat. We thank the meat industry!

By the way, in trimming fat from your meat, every half ounce left off subtracts 100 calories!

The Revised Calorie Chart lists the calories in lean as well as in marbled meats. Be sure to send a stamped, self - addressed, long envelope. Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, care of The Review. Postcard requests cannot be answered.

Study Suggestions Offered Students

Any pupils or student would like to get better results from his efforts at learning. Here are a few suggestions: Try to make every moment in the classroom count. The more alert you are to what is said there, the less time and effort you will need to expend outside of class. An occasional youth does so well in class that he doesn't have to do much "homework." Even the assigned outside reading may grow easier because of what he absorbed in the classroom.

Dr. Garry Myers

A good student doesn't let himself daydream. He pays strict attention in class to everything there. As he leaves a classroom, he evaluates his success on how well he could have answered every question asked.

If he has the opportunity, he asks a question during the class period in order to clarify concepts he was not sure about. Or he may find out about this from other sources.

—:—

HE remembers or makes notes of all the assignments without thought of asking anybody later what they are. He learns to take notes well during the class period, not too many — lest he should miss hearing essential matters — but enough to get the major points.

During outside study he amplifies these notes enough to make them useful to him. He also makes mental notes in class and often recalls them later. He reviews his written and mental notes for the day as he goes at his outside study.

When an assignment covers several days or weeks he does not put it off. He budgets his time so as to have this assignment completed when due. He has a regular time and place for study, making a schedule with a budgeted period of time for each subject; and he sticks to his plan. He selects one evening for study out of each weekend; otherwise, Monday may be his worst day.

HE GETS away from radio, TV and family conversation, if he can; otherwise he trains himself to ignore them. Before beginning to study, he has assembled all his materials and tools. He doesn't let himself "fiddle around."

When reading from a text or reference book, he reads the entire selection through to get the general drift, then reads it more carefully and turns it briefly into his own words. He learns to read well. If he finds he reads laboriously, he tries to find ways to read better.

He may profit from the help of a reading expert or reading clinic. He can help himself by daily practice of a few minutes reading from materials much easier than his school or college textbooks.

My bulletins, "Tips for Students", "Parents and the Child's Homework" and "Home Helps for Poor Readers I and II" may be secured by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

ELHS BAND SIGN. This 10-foot-long sign, slated for appearance on national television Nov. 26, will receive its public debut with the East Liverpool High School Band Friday night at the homecoming football game at Patterson Field. The banner was constructed to publicize the city at out-of-town performances, Vincent Maola, director, said. It will be seen on television when the band appears in a parade at Philadelphia Thanksgiving Day and again Nov. 29 when the band plays at the Pittsburgh Steelers-St. Louis Cardinals football game at Pittsburgh. Shown are Linda Tice, left, and Marilyn Smith. Cost of the sign is being paid by civic groups and pottery firms. 2 Girls Who Trailed Beatles To London On Way Home

LONDON, (AP) — The two Cleveland, Ohio, girls who slipped off to Britain to worship the Beatles were on their way home today with a new enthusiasm. They've switched to the Rolling Stones.

Teen-agers Janice Hawkins and Martha Schendel were picked up in London Wednesday and spent the night under benevolent guard at the West End Police Station.

U.S. Consul Henry Lilienfield met them after breakfast this morning, before driving them to London Airport to board a plane for New York.

The girls, both 16, vanished from their homes Sept. 17, a day after the mop-haired Beatles performed in Cleveland. Their disappearance touched off a hunt on both sides of the Atlantic.

A policewoman spotted Janice Wednesday on crowded Oxford Street. She told police they would find Martha in an apartment the two had rented about a mile from the city's west end entertainment center.

The girls were unharmed and happy because they had visited Liverpool, the Beatles' hometown.

"Apparently they've been touring around—all quite innocent—following their favorite beat groups," a Scotland Yard inspector said.

"They've switched allegiance to the Rolling Stones, another pop group over here. The Rolling Stones have a lot more hair, you known, enough to stuff a mattress with."

The Rolling Stones are scheduled to visit Cleveland soon.

Police said the girls had $1,400 left.

In Cleveland, Mrs. Isabel Schendel, Martha's mother, said her daughter had taken nearly $2,000 set aside for college to finance the trip.

Mrs. E. W. Klein, Janice's guardian, said: "I don't think a girl 16 should be left alone in this country, let alone in a strange country. It is very strange they left in the first place with no reason at all except those silly old Beatles."

When Cleveland police asked the British to check into the girls' disappearance, the home office at first said it had no record they had arrived. Later it found they went through London Airport's immigration office under their own names on Sept. 18.

Every police station in Britain got pictures of the pair. At one stage of the search even the Beatles were asked to make a personal appeal for Janice and Martha.

But the Beatles declined, perhaps afraid more of their female fans would vanish until they called them.

Overhauling The Emmy Awards

Rod Serling, the "Twilight Zone" author-host, is in New York on a critical mission for the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, of which he is president.

Richard Doan

He's going to try to sell the TV networks on a plan for overhauling the academy's Emmy awards. The Emmys came under heavy critical fire from within the industry last spring, with two of the three networks ABC and CBS, publicly withdrawing support because of declared misgivings over the fairness and validity of the nominating and voting procedures followed by the academy in picking annual winners.

-:-

NBC, WHICH televises the annual Emmy ceremonies, defended the awards, but offered to put up as much as $25,000 if the other two chains would do likewise to underwrite a study of possible improvements in the awards.

ABC said it would go along; CBS said it would conduct its own inquiry, thanks.

The academy, ever since then, has been grappling with the whole unpleasant problem. Unpleasant, that is, because, like the Oscars handed out by Hollywood's movie academy, the Emmys are the TV academy's chief pride and they have never been at so low a prestige level.

Serling and other academy leaders will pitch up their new awards system to top network officials in meetings at network offices here.

-:-

JUST WHAT the academy is proposing is not being disclosed just yet, "for a number of reasons," said Peter Cott, academy assistant to Serling. He declined to elaborate, except to say the academy "hopes for an enthusiastic reception."

Cott said he was not at liberty to confirm a report that the academy proposes to eliminate membership voting for Emmy winners in favor of selections by a panel of judges.

It also is said that the academy will throw out rigidly fixed categories of awards in favor of awards only where they were felt to be merited.

The academy is an organization of about 6,000 TV performers and production people, all of whom, up to now, have had a vote on Emmy candidates.

-:-

ABC RAN with the ratings ball weekend before last, announcing itself as the leading network, blessed with 6 of the top 10 shows.

The authority: a 30-city Nielsen survey for the week ending Sept. 27, which, CBS officials hastened to note, was the week CBS unveiled its fall shows.

The top 10 shows, according to this survey:

"Bewitched" (ABC), "The Fugitive" (ABC), "Bonanza" (NBC), "Ben Casy" (ABC), "Lassie" (CBS), "No Time for Sergeants" (ABC), "Peyton Place" on Tuesday (ABC), "My Three Sons" (ABC), Ed Sullivan (CBS) and "My Favorite Martian" (CBS).

-:-

THE NEXT 10, in order of popularity:

Sunday Night Movies (ABC), "The Munsters" (CBS), "The Addams Family" (ABC), "Petticoat Junction" (CBS), "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea" (ABC), Patty Duke (ABC), "Gomar Pyle" (CBS), "Beverly Hillbillies" (CBS), "Gilligan's Island" (CBS), and Walt Disney (NBC).

ABC said that in the week survey its 16 new weekly series got an average rating of 23.7, while CBS' 12 new shows averaged 18.6.

The 30-market Nielson covers cities in which all three of the TV networks are fully exposed.

Lisbon Truck Theft Linked To Entry Try

LISBON — Police believe the person who stole a Kuhns Hardware truck Wednesday night also attempted a burglary at Williams Sohio service station. The establishments are only a block apart.

Police Chief Leon T. Zahrnt reported Glenn Gallo, the truck owner, said the tire tracks at the rear of the service station matched the tread on his 1956 two-ton green Studebaker pickup. The vehicle has not been recovered.

Police said a large window was broken at the rear of the service station and tracks showed the truck had been backed up to the window where antifreeze and tires were stored.

The thief apparently was sacred off before he got anything. Police said the ground was torn up as though the driver spun the tires getting away.

Gallo's truck was parked at the rear of the hardware, which is within sight of Williams' station.

Franklin Firemen Pay Monthly Bills Of $102

The trustees will meet Nov. 11. Officers and some trustees will be elected at the annual meeting of the entire department Nov. 11.

Dispute Closes Mills

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—A labor dispute has closed three mills and the melt shop at Copperweld Steel Co. and idled 650 employes. No grievances will be discussed until the workers return to their jobs, the company said.

All residents of the East Liverpool, Beaver Local, Wellsville, Midland, Oak Glen, Western Beaver and South Side School Districts, who paid a $1 membership last spring to sponsor the "Dollars for Scholars" drive, are invited to attend and vote.

The nominating committee, headed by Mrs. Mike Turk, met last Sunday to prepare a slate of officers and trustees to be presented next Sunday.

Officers to be elected include a president, campaign vice president, program vice president, recording secretary, corresponding secretary and treasurer.

Two trustees from each school district will be elected and will include filling a vacancy each in the Midland, Western Beaver, South Side and Beaver Local School Districts.

Because of the limit on the number of terms they may serve, all present officers cannot be re-elected. This is also true for several trustee posts.

Members of the nominating committee, appointed by Joseph D. Coons of East Liverpool, foundation president, are: Mrs. Turk, chairman, Walter Jordan of Chester, William Ferrall of Wellsville, John Duffy of East Liverpool R. D., Earl Rankin of Industry, Mrs. M. D. Renwick of Industry, and James Ashcroft of Hookstown R. D.

Last year, the second year for the Dollars for Scholars drive, the seven districts raised nearly $19,000 which was awarded in approximately 45 scholarships to area high school graduates planning to further their education at a college or special school.

Mr. and Mrs. Patsy Caravelli of Lisbon were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Cozzolli of Monroe Heights.

Fire Damages Small House At Salineville

SALINEVILLE — The interior of a four-room North St. home was burned out in a $4,000 blaze caused by defective wiring this morning shortly after 8:30.

Mrs. Stella Lewis of 16 North St. escaped injury when the flames swept the inside of the one-story frame home owned by Mrs. Ruth Shettle of Alexandria, Va., her granddaughter.

Mrs. Lewis, 65, who resides alone, said she was in the kitchen when she glanced up and saw the flames in the ceiling. She is the mother of former Police Chief Roy Lewis.

Fire Chief Tony Brandonisio said the building is a total loss, although the walls and roof are standing. He said the fire was apparently ignited by a short circuit in wiring.

Clothing and furniture were destroyed in the blaze, but Brandonisio said there is some salvage. There is no insurance on the home or contents, he added.

Mrs. Lewis said she thought about trying to remove some clothing, but decided instead to summon firemen.

Seven firemen and two trucks responded to the alarm. Volunteers also assisted, Chief Brandonisio said.

Judge Directs Verdict In Traffic Crash Suit

The jury was seated Wednesday morning but the defendant did not appear. The verdict was directed after the plaintiffs testified. The jury then was dismissed.

Out Of The Air

By RICHARD K. DOAN

Overhauling The Emmy Awards

Rod Serling, the "Twilight Zone" author-host, is in New York on a critical mission for the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, of which he is president.

Richard Doan

He's going to try to sell the TV networks on a plan for overhauling the academy's Emmy awards. The Emmys came under heavy critical fire from within the industry last spring, with two of the three networks ABC and CBS, publicly withdrawing support because of declared misgivings over the fairness and validity of the nominating and voting procedures followed by the academy in picking annual winners.

-:-

NBC, WHICH televises the annual Emmy ceremonies, defended the awards, but offered to put up as much as $25,000 if the other two chains would do likewise to underwrite a study of possible improvements in the awards.

ABC said it would go along; CBS said it would conduct its own inquiry, thanks.

The academy, ever since then, has been grappling with the whole unpleasant problem. Unpleasant, that is, because, like the Oscars handed out by Hollywood's movie academy, the Emmys are the TV academy's chief pride and they have never been at so low a prestige level.

Serling and other academy leaders will pitch up their new awards system to top network officials in meetings at network offices here.

-:-

JUST WHAT the academy is proposing is not being disclosed just yet, "for a number of reasons," said Peter Cott, academy assistant to Serling. He declined to elaborate, except to say the academy "hopes for an enthusiastic reception."

Cott said he was not at liberty to confirm a report that the academy proposes to eliminate membership voting for Emmy winners in favor of selections by a panel of judges.

It also is said that the academy will throw out rigidly fixed categories of awards in favor of awards only where they were felt to be merited.

The academy is an organization of about 6,000 TV performers and production people, all of whom, up to now, have had a vote on Emmy candidates.

-:-

ABC RAN with the ratings ball weekend before last, announcing itself as the leading network, blessed with 6 of the top 10 shows.

The authority: a 30-city Nielsen survey for the week ending Sept. 27, which, CBS officials hastened to note, was the week CBS unveiled its fall shows.

The top 10 shows, according to this survey:

"Bewitched" (ABC), "The Fugitive" (ABC), "Bonanza" (NBC), "Ben Casy" (ABC), "Lassie" (CBS), "No Time for Sergeants" (ABC), "Peyton Place" on Tuesday (ABC), "My Three Sons" (ABC), Ed Sullivan (CBS) and "My Favorite Martian" (CBS).

-:-

THE NEXT 10, in order of popularity:

Sunday Night Movies (ABC), "The Munsters" (CBS), "The Addams Family" (ABC), "Petticoat Junction" (CBS), "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea" (ABC), Patty Duke (ABC), "Gomar Pyle" (CBS), "Beverly Hillbillies" (CBS), "Gilligan's Island" (CBS), and Walt Disney (NBC).

ABC said that in the week survey its 16 new weekly series got an average rating of 23.7, while CBS' 12 new shows averaged 18.6.

The 30-market Nielson covers cities in which all three of the TV networks are fully exposed.

Lisbon Truck Theft Linked To Entry Try

LISBON — Police believe the person who stole a Kuhns Hardware truck Wednesday night also attempted a burglary at Williams Sohio service station. The establishments are only a block apart.

Police Chief Leon T. Zahrnt reported Glenn Gallo, the truck owner, said the tire tracks at the rear of the service station matched the tread on his 1956 two-ton green Studebaker pickup. The vehicle has not been recovered.

Police said a large window was broken at the rear of the service station and tracks showed the truck had been backed up to the window where antifreeze and tires were stored.

The thief apparently was sacred off before he got anything. Police said the ground was torn up as though the driver spun the tires getting away.

Gallo's truck was parked at the rear of the hardware, which is within sight of Williams' station.

Franklin Firemen Pay Monthly Bills Of $102

SUMMITVILLE — Lack of a quorum prevented official action at a meeting of the trustees of the Franklin volunteer fire department Wednesday night, but Wade Clark, secretary - treasurer, paid bills of $102 for fuel and utilities under a standing authorization.

The trustees will meet Nov. 11. Officers and some trustees will be elected at the annual meeting of the entire department Nov. 11.

County Women's Guest

State GOP Aide Speaks

"Local government is the backbone of our governmental system," Mrs. Florence Morris of Toledo, seated left, told Columbiana County Republican Women Wednesday at Salem.

Shown with her, standing, are Allen Dalrymple of Wellsville, candidate for 18th District congressman, and Miss Gladys DeBolt of East Liverpool, county GOP chairwoman, and Mrs. Letha Astry of Salem, seated right, state committeewoman.

Mrs. Morris, vice chairman of the Republican State Central and Executive Committee, stressed the need for a Republican victory from the Courthouse to the White House.

"The ultimate hope and goal of all of us is election of Sen. Barry Goldwater as President, but they must have a supporting cast in Congress," she declared.

She asserted it is 'vitally important" that Ohio elect Robert Taft Jr. as U.S. Senator and Oliver P. Bolton as congressman-at-large along with Dalrymple as 18th District representative.

Assisting in preparations for the meeting were Mrs. Ruth Crawford of East Liverpool, Mrs. Delores Stockman of Lisbon, Mrs. Maxine Esterly of East Palestine and Mrs. June Kendall of Columbiana.

Weiss To Be Honored At Jewish Appeal Fete

The resignation of Judge Samuel A. Weiss as chairman of the Tri-State Region United Jewish Appeal will mark the annual fall luncheon conference Oct. 25 at 12 noon at the Webster Hall Hotel in Pittsburgh.

Several members of the East Liverpool Jewish Federation, of which Mike Turk is president, are expected to attend.

Judge Weiss, of the Common Pleas Court of Allegheny County, is stepping down after completing 19 years as chairman. The conference will be marked by a special tribute to him for his "long and faithful service."

Bernard Cherrick, executive vice president of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, will be the featured speaker. He was born in Dublin and educated in England at the universities of London and Manchester. Settling in Israel in 1947, he became the world director of organization and information for the Hebrew University. He held the post until he assumed his present position with the university.

Another speaker will be David L. Lawrence, former governor of Pennsylvania and currently chairman of the president's committee on equal opportunity and housing.

Entertainment will be provided by Zigi Binor, Israeli accordionist, singer and composer.

The luncheon guests will include representatives of the 83 communities comprising the tri-state area of Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Maryland. From these communities, more than a million dollars is expected to be raised this year for overseas needs in Israel and 30 other countries where Jews are in need.

State Liquor Board Processes 2 Permits

The Ohio Department of Liquor Control at Columbus said it is processing an application for an East Liverpool permit and for transfer of a permit of a rural tavern.

Fred L. Rayl, 246 W. 4th St., seeks a C-1 permit for carry-out sale of 3.2 beer. The request was filed Sept. 11.

Gale Combs, operator of the Apples Corner Tavern at Routes 267 and 30, seeks transfer of the permit to Delmar D. Dailey of the same location. The application was made Sept. 29.

Fire Victim Improves

HAMMONDSVILLE — Jeffrey Huff, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Huff, is recuperating with first degree burns suffered Monday morning when his clothing caught fire from a pile of burning rubbish. He was burned on the left arm and was treated by an East Liverpool physician.

Dispute Closes Mills

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—A labor dispute has closed three mills and the melt shop at Copperweld Steel Co. and idled 650 employes. The company said Wednesday that the shutdown resulted after employes began reporting "off sick" last week and it spread to other departments. No grievances will be discussed until the workers return to their jobs, the company said.

Scholar Fund Sets Election

New officers and trustees for seven school districts of the Citizens Scholarship Foundation of the East Liverpool Area will be elected at a meeting Sunday at 3 p. m. at Mike Turk's Auto Agency.

3 Potter Regulars Injured; McNea High On Thornton

What kind of condition are the Potters in as they meet their chief rival—Wellsville—Friday night?

Let Potter coach Bob McNea answer that: "we are in our worst physical shape of the season," McNea said Wednesday as he looked over a growing list of injuries.

Three regulars are expected to be out of the East Liverpool lineup Friday night when Wellsville led by Chris 'Thunder' Thornton invades Patterson Field.

The three gridders hold key positions on the Potter eleven. Lost will be co-captain and tackle Mike Snowden, a 190-pounder who has been the workhorse of the Potter forward wall so far this season. Snowden suffered a sprained knee in the New Philadelphia game.

Split end Bob Burkhart came out of the New Philly game with a leg sprain and isn't scheduled for any duty Friday, McNea pointed out. With Burkhart out, the Potters will be missing their No. 1 receiver.

Ralph Smith, a regular halfback, injured two weeks ago in the Steubenville Central game is still on crutches after suffering a cut leg.

To make matters worse, McNea reported that Bob Lane, who would be Burkhart's substitute at end, was out with a sprained ankle while Larry Long, a full back replacement and John Lowrey another backfield replacement are nursing knee injuries.

This puts McNea in a situation where he is digging into his reserve team.

Replacing Snowden on offense will be John Stevens, a 220-pound senior who has had very little varsity experience. Defensively, Chuck Taylor and Len Walker are expected to share the tackle duties along with Van Pinkerton, another inexperienced senior tackle.

Burkhart's replacement is expected to be junior Mike Silliman who has shown up well in reserve contests.

Mike Goodballet will fill the halfback spot for Smith. Goodballet flashed some good running form in last week's contest.

Denny Burke, Nick Marchbanks and Bob Maltarich will round out the Potter backfield Friday.

McNea raises the roof on his praise of Wellsville's big gun Chris Thornton. "I saw enough of Thornton Saturday against Southern Local. He has more all around ability than any back I have seen all year." "This guy also is the center of the Wellsville defense," McNea said.

The Potter mentor rates Thornton over Steubenville Central's Buster Yannon for the simple reason that Thornton is an all-around player and the star of the Tiger defense. Yannon does not play defense for the Crusaders.

"Thornton can pass and run and he is one of the few runners who doesn't need blocking." He also makes a lot of tackles from that middle linebacker spot."

"Harry Thornton does a good job at quarterback and has some good receivers. With our pass defense the way it has been, this phase of the game worries me," McNea said.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "So the Yankees want to scramble. It's all right with us. We're the best scramblers in baseball."

Southpaw star Curt Simmons summed up the St. Louis Cardinals' attitude going into today's second game after handing the New York Yankees their fifth straight World Series defeat 9-5 in Wednesday's opener.

The victory put Johnny Keane, who still doesn't have a contract to manage the Cardinals next year, in the driver's seat, in more ways than one.

He now has his ace pitcher right-hander Bob Gibson, to fire against the Yankees in the second game of the Series. If the Cards win, it would put the 53-year-old skipper in a most advantageous position when he sits down with owner Gussie Busch to discuss his status next week.

Yogi Berra, who saw his ace, veteran Whitey Ford, go down under a Redbird barrage, featured by young Mike Shannon's towering home run, must rely on a rookie, Mel Stottlemyre, to pitch the first Yankee post season victory since October 1962.

Stottlemyre, a 22-year-old right-hander, was a key factor in the Yankee pennant victory this year. Brought up from Richmond in mid-August, he posted a 9-3 record with a 2.16 earned run average.

Gibson, with a 19-12 record during the regular season, was to have been Keane's opening-game pitcher but the fire-balling native of Omaha, Neb., had to be summoned from the bullpen for the pennant clincher Sunday.

"Winning the first game means a great deal, of course," said Keane, "but what pleases me most is that we've now got our pitching rotation straightened out.

"I think we're in good position now with Gibson going for us in the second game and one game in the bag. I like Gibson any time he goes out, no matter who we're playing."

Six pitchers were used in the opener, the Yankees employing four. Neither starter, Ford of the Yankees nor Ray Sadecki of the Cards, had it Wednesday, as each team cracked a dozen hits. Al Downing, Pete Mikkelsen and Hal Reniff followed Ford to the mound with the southpaw absorbing the loss.

Whitey, whose 10 triumphs are a Series record, now has lost eight, including his last four starts. Shannon's two-run homer, a towering 450-foot blast, which tied the score at 4-4 in the sixth inning, started Ford's downfall. Tim McCarver's follow-up double finished him.

Sadecki was credited with the victory but it took a three-inning relief job by Barney Schultz, the 38-year-old knuckleballer, to preserve the triumph.

Curt Flood, Lou Brock, McCarver and Shannon each had two hits in this scrambling game in which the Yankees committed two errors and catcher Elston Howard was guilty of two passed balls.

The Yankees, too, had their hitting clothes on, especially Tommy Tresh, who whacked a double and home run. They grabbed a 3-1 lead in the second inning in which they had Sadecki on the ropes but let him get away.

Five hits shook up the young left-hander pretty good, but Ford was cut down at the plate on a fine throw by Brock from left field. That proved to be the turning point of the game.

"If Ford had scored," said Keane, 'I would have taken Sadecki out. Even then, another hit and Ray was gone."

Ford Realized HR Ball Was Gone Without Even Looking

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Left-hander Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees winced as the curve ball left his hand. Young Mike Shannon of the St. Louis Cardinals swung, bat hit ball and Ford pounded his glove in disgust.

"I knew is was gone without looking," said Ford, 35-year-old veteran of many a World Series.

Shannon's two-run towering drive in the sixth inning Wednesday traveled more than 450 feet, struck the beer sign atop the scoreboard in left field and tied the score at 4-4. It spurred the Cardinals to a four-run inning and a 9-5 victory in the first game of the World Series.

"That homer gave me the biggest thrill of my life," Shannon told reporters huddled around him in the clubhouse. Then added sheepishly: "But it wasn't the longest I ever hit.

"I hit one last year that struck the clock on top of the scoreboard in Pittsburgh."

A grin crept over his Irish face.

"I even hit a longer homer in Dublin—Dublin, Ga., of course," he said. "I really shillaleghed that one."

The lanky 25-year-old right fielder, a bit embarrassed by the attention given him, took it all in stride.

"Dick Groat, Ken Boyer and Bill White are the big men on this club, but every day one of the rest of us comes through to help out," he said. "Today, it was my turn."

His turn has been a long time coming. Once famed more for his football ability as a quarterback with Christian Brothers High School in his native St. Louis and then as a freshman at the University of Missouri, Shannon still snapped up an offer to play baseball.

He signed with St. Louis for $50,000 in 1958 but spent five years in the minor leagues before he got a chance with the Cardinals in 1963. He played in 36 games but spent most of the time as a defensive replacement for Stan Musial.

Musial retired after that season and the Cardinals gave Shannon a good chance to stick in spring training. But he had a terrible spring and was sent back down with no options left. If the Cardinals had not recalled him this season, he would have been subject to the winter draft.

"I made up my mind to work as hard as I could to improve my hitting," said the 6-foot-2, 195-pound right-handed hitter. "I had to. I've got a wife and four kids at home."

Hitting .280 with 11 home runs, he was recalled from Jacksonville in July. With the Cardinals, in only 253 at bats, he slugged nine homers and drove in 43 runs with a .261 batting average.

Miss Tosmah, who made it five straight stakes at Aqueduct when she won the Beldame, was bred in Florida by Eugene Mori. He sold her to Anthony Imbesi for $100,000.

'It Electrified The Bench'

Shannon's Homer Seen Turning Point By Keane

By TOM PENDERGAST

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The victor and the vanquished sounded alike, and both dressing rooms were strangely quiet after the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the New York Yankees 9-5 in Wednesday's World Series opener.

"It was a tough day to pitch," said loser Whitey Ford, the crafty Yankee left-hander.

"My control was off," added the winner, southpaw Ray Sadecki of the Cardinals.

You could hardly tell the judging from the clubhouse atmosphere.

"We aren't whooping it up until it's all over," said the Redbirds' speedy left fielder, Lou Brock.

"We know we still have to win three more," echoed shortstop Dick Groat.

Johnny Keane, the Cards' slight, cigar-smoking manager, was so bombarded by reporters' questions he frequently cupped his ear to hear.

"We played methodical ball today," he said. "Our men came through when they had to. The Yankees were tough, but we arose to the occasion."

Manager Yogi Berra of the Yankees, munching a sandwich, had about the same attitude.

"I'm not disappointed," said Berra. "It's a strange ball park and we haven't played here. They (the Cards) just found some of the holes for their hits that we didn't."

Both teams had 12 hits and one home run, but the Yankees had two errors and — amazingly — two passed balls by their usually sterling catcher, Elston Howard.

Yankee left fielder Tom Tresh and Cardinal right fielder Mike Shannon each hit two-run homers. But Shannon's appeared the turning point of the game, tieing the score at 4-4 in the sixth.

"If I picked the turning point of the game — the one that got us the chance we needed and inspired the players," said Keane, "it would have to be Shannon's home run. It electrified the bench. That was about the longest ball I've ever seen hit out here."

Shannon's blast, with Ken Boyer aboard, rocketed off a beer advertisement for Cardinal owner August A. Busch Jr.'s brewery products atop the scoreboard in left. It got help from the 16 m.p.h. wind, blowing steadily down the line.

Howard said Shannon's homer "came on a slider (by Ford) that came up. Some of Whitey's breaking stuff was coming up — not all."

"I knew Shannon's ball was a homer when it was hit," moaned Ford.

The black-haired, crew-cut Shannon was beseiged by reporters.

"That wasn't the longest ball I ever hit," he said. "I hit one longer than that in Pittsburgh, and you should have seen the one I hit in Dublin, Ga. — not Ireland. I really shilellaghed it!"

Curt Flood, the little center fielder, put the Cardinals ahead in the sixth with a triple off the wall in left.

Most Valuable In IL

MONTREAL (AP) — Third baseman Joe Morgan of the Jacksonville Suns was voted the most valuable player in the International League during the 1964 season, the league disclosed today.

The 33-year-old veteran, who sparked the Suns to the regular season pennant, was named on 15 of 23 ballots cast by the league's baseball writers participating in the voting.

Notes Copied At Series

Right fielder Mike Shannon's game-tying home run in the sixth inning of Wednesday's Series opener was the first by a St. Louis Cardinal since the fourth game of the 1946 classic when Enos Slaughter connected. Slaughter, too, was a right fielder.

★ ★ ★

Elston Howard's two passed balls tied the Series record for one game. The last to do it before the Yankee catcher was Pittsburgh's Smoky Burgess in 1960 — against the Yanks. Four others share the mark.

★ ★ ★

Yankee first baseman Joe Pepitone, who had his difficulties offensively and defensively in last year's classic, went hitless in five tries Wednesday. This reduced his Series batting average to .118 with two hits in 18 trips covering five games.

★ ★ ★

Because the capacity of Busch Stadium is only 30,500, Wednesday's attendance of 30,805 was the smallest for a Series game since the 1950 opener when the Yanks and Phils played before 30,746.

3 Potter Regulars Injured; McNea High On Thornton

What kind of condition are the Potters in as they meet their chief rival—Wellsville—Friday night?

Let Potter coach Bob McNea answer that: "we are in our worst physical shape of the season," McNea said Wednesday as he looked over a growing list of injuries.

Three regulars are expected to be out of the East Liverpool lineup Friday night when Wellsville led by Chris 'Thunder' Thornton invades Patterson Field.

The three gridders hold key positions on the Potter eleven. Lost will be co-captain and tackle Mike Snowden, a 190-pounder who has been the workhorse of the Potter forward wall so far this season. Snowden suffered a sprained knee in the New Philadelphia game.

Split end Bob Burkhart came out of the New Philly game with a leg sprain and isn't scheduled for any duty Friday, McNea pointed out. With Burkhart out, the Potters will be missing their No. 1 receiver.

Ralph Smith, a regular halfback, injured two weeks ago in the Steubenville Central game is still on crutches after suffering a cut leg.

To make matters worse, McNea reported that Bob Lane, who would be Burkhart's substitute at end, was out with a sprained ankle while Larry Long, a full back replacement and John Lowrey another backfield replacement are nursing knee injuries.

This puts McNea in a situation where he is digging into his reserve team.

Replacing Snowden on offense will be John Stevens, a 220-pound senior who has had very little varsity experience. Defensively, Chuck Taylor and Len Walker are expected to share the tackle duties along with Van Pinkerton, another inexperienced senior tackle.

Burkhart's replacement is expected to be junior Mike Silliman who has shown up well in reserve contests.

Mike Goodballet will fill the halfback spot for Smith. Goodballet flashed some good running form in last week's contest.

Denny Burke, Nick Marchbanks and Bob Maltarich will round out the Potter backfield Friday.

McNea raises the roof on his praise of Wellsville's big gun Chris Thornton. "I saw enough of Thornton Saturday against Southern Local. He has more all around ability than any back I have seen all year." "This guy also is the center of the Wellsville defense," McNea said.

The Potter mentor rates Thornton over Steubenville Central's Buster Yannon for the simple reason that Thornton is an all-around player and the star of the Tiger defense. Yannon does not play defense for the Crusaders.

"Thornton can pass and run and he is one of the few runners who doesn't need blocking." He also makes a lot of tackles from that middle linebacker spot."

"Harry Thornton does a good job at quarterback and has some good receivers. With our pass defense the way it has been, this phase of the game worries me," McNea said.

Cards Defeat Ford In Opener, 9-5

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "So the Yankees want to scramble. It's all right with us. We're the best scramblers in baseball."

Gabe Paul Plans To Visit Seattle To Weigh Offers

CLEVELAND (AP) — Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, will visit Seattle this week to find out what that city will offer to obtain the American League club's franchise, the Cleveland Plain Dealer said today.

Hal Lebovitz, Plain Dealer sports editor, talked Wednesday to Paul during a plane trip to the World Series in St. Louis. Here, in part, is the interview.

Q—" . . . Are you going to Seattle?"

Gabe—"I plan to. I'll probably fly there after the second World Series game."

Q—"Will you be visiting Oakland (Calif.)?"

Gabe—"Possibly. I haven't decided."

Q—"Atlanta?"

Gabe—"I don't know."

The three cities mentioned are interested in drawing the franchise away from Cleveland. The Indians' board of directors met Tuesday, but postponed until Oct. 16 a decision on whether the Indians will move. Lebovitz asked about the possible outcome:

Q—"Then it boils down to this: Weighing what you could do in Cleveland financially as compared to what you could do elsewhere. You know the Cleveland situation. Since the directors didn't vote . . . to stay, they apparently can't find this city attractive enough."

Gabe—"Let me repeat what I've always said: The directors would rather stay in Cleveland at less money if we could stay alive here financially. We just want to get all the facts elsewhere before reaching our ultimate decision."

Boat Predictions Made

By JOHN BOHANNAN

Certain long - range boating predictions can be made based on present tendencies. First, I believe the most popular size of boat will move up in length from the minimums which marked the early days of the boating boom. Families have learned that a larger boat is safer, more comfortable, more seaworthy and more useful.

In line with this trend, the inboard-outboard power plant, or outdrive, will make further gains. The principal reason is the discovery, by an increasing number of fans, that the four-cycle engine is far more economical than the two-cycle engine. Yet the I-O drive retains the maneuverability and trailerability of the outboard.

DON'T GET the idea that two-cycle outboards are doomed. They'll always have a strong hold on the lion's share of the market. The outboard is simple, light, inexpensive to manufacture, sells at popular prices and will run many years with a minimum of expenditure on service.

For larger hulls, the conventional inboard installation will be with us for as far ahead as we can see. More families constantly are stepping up to medium and large cruisers, usually inboards.

This type of drive is simple. Small inboards use direct drive, with the engine drive shaft coupled through the reverse to the propeller shaft.

Single-screw inboards are a bit difficult for the beginner to handle, but the twin-screw boat is easiest of all to move around in tight places.

Although the initial expense and weight has been keeping diesels from showing much gain, watch for the first gas turbine, using the same inexpensive, non-explosive fuel, to capture the market once volume production in the automotive field brings costs down.

THE MAJOR breakthrough in hull design scored by Ray Hunt will continue to dominate power boats. The full-length deep vee hull using longitudinal "strake" planes assures a high standard of performance for anything rougher than a mill pond.

Fiber glass, now having lived down the black eye from a few of the early hulls, which were poorly designed and constructed, seems certain to lead the way in the future. It is proving its durability and economy of maintenance.

Lightweight, high - performance aluminum alloy also can be counted on to show important sales advances in the next few years.

Watch for sailboats to increase in popularity, particularly the centerboarders in the range from 14 to 22 feet in overall length, which can be hauled on trailers behind the family car.

Many boating fans who started in power are switching to sail because it offers a greater challenge in skill and competition and quiet relaxation for the family.

Questions And Answers

Q.—Every time I get a bill from a boatyard or marina, it makes me mad. It seems like they charge three or four times what they should for their services. Do you agree?

A.—Low - maintenance hulls are a good answer to this problem. Also, any work you can do yourself will save plenty. Yards and marinas are faced with rising costs in material and labor and often must boost their charges.

Q.—Will there always be a shortage of docking space?

A.—In some areas this has been eased as supply catches up with demand. There should be more abundant slip space in the future.

OSU-Illinois Game Eyed For All-American Talent

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Defending champion Illinois' Big Ten football showdown with ranking challenger Ohio State Saturday, also will preen or clip the feathers of some prime All-America candidates.

The Fighting Illini, No. 2 in the AP's national poll, will confront the also-unbeaten Buckeyes with such pedigreed performers as Dick Butkus, 1963 All-America, and his rangy linebacking mate, Don Hansen, not to mention brusing tackles Archie Sutton and Bill Minor, and fullback Jim Grabowski.

Ohio State's All-America potentials include fullback Willard Sander, who has a better two-game rushing record than Grabowski; star defensive back Arnie Chonko; and linebacker Dwight Kelley.

Other players in this important conference battle who earned citations from the Midwest's All-America screening board include halfback Sam Price and quarterback Fred Custardo of Illinois, and quarterback Don Unverferth of Ohio State.

Parker Back With Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) — One of the leading citizens of Broken Bow, Okla., has stopped limping, which may well prove to be a shot in the arm for the Cleveland Browns' defensive line.

Big Frank Parker, a 267-pound tackle, is back in shape after being sidelined with a knee injury since Sept. 13 in Washington.

"It took longer than I expected but the knee feels good now," said Parker Wednesday. "I've been working on weights with it and it should be as good as new."

Parker's return solves what could have been a major problem for the Browns. Bob Gain suffered a broken leg last Sunday, leaving coach Blanton Collier with two defensive tackles—Jim Kanicki and Dick Modzelewski.

The Browns quickly acquired Mike Bundra from the Minnesota Vikings for an undisclosed draft choice. Now Parker is back and the number is up to four.

Parker will handle duties on the right side when the Browns face the Pittsburgh Steelers Saturday night at Municipal Stadium. Modzelewski will be on the left.

Bundra arrived Wednesday and immediately began working with line coach Nick Skorich. He will be available for emergency duty. He has played both sides of the line.

The Browns will be fighting to stay in first place in the Eastern Division of the National Football League. They're 3-0-1, tied with the St. Louis Cardinals. Pittsburgh is 2-2.

Ross Fichtner, defensive back who was knocked out against Dallas last Sunday, also is expected to be back and ready for duty Saturday.

East Scores Late TD To Edge Beavers

Ray Boyd plunged over from four yards out with a minute and a half remaining in the game to give East Junior High a 6-0 victory over Beaver Local in a defensive struggle Wednesday at the East End gridiron.

East Junior scored the late touchdown after tackle Ron Vaughn had blocked his second punt of the game and the Panthers took over on the Beaver Local 45.

Beaver Local never threatened in the contest as both sides threw up strong defenses with an interception by Dale Jones being a key play for East.

Boyd led the Panthers' offense with 126 yards gained in 20 carries.

The victory leaves East with a 1-1 record while Beaver Local is 1-2 on the season.

Blown Tire Halts Arfon's Speed Record

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP) — Art Arfons headed home to Akron, Ohio, today, his effort to top his own world land speed record stalled by a flat tire.

The right back tire of Arfons' 17,000-horsepower jet car blew Wednesday as he streaked across the white salt desert of western Utah at nearly 500 miles an hour.

The blowout damaged the body of the car, called the Green Monster, and Arfons said he would have to take it back to his Akron garage to fix it.

Arfons was not hurt in the mishap.

Arfons, 38, set the record of 434.02 m.p.h. Monday in two passes over a one-mile course. He was clocked at 479 m.p.h. on one of the runs, but a two-way average must be established for the record.

On Wednesday, he was timed at 413.60 m.p.h. on his first run. But on the return trip the tire blew out.

Gabe Paul Plans To Visit Seattle To Weigh Offers

CLEVELAND (AP) — Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, will visit Seattle this week to find out what that city will offer to obtain the American League club's franchise, the Cleveland Plain Dealer said today.

Hal Lebovitz, Plain Dealer sports editor, talked Wednesday to Paul during a plane trip to the World Series in St. Louis. Here, in part, is the interview.

Q—". . . Are you going to Seattle?"

Gabe—"I plan to. I'll probably fly there after the second World Series game."

Q—"Will you be visiting Oakland (Calif.)?"

Gabe—"Possibly. I haven't decided."

Q—"Atlanta?"

Gabe—"I don't know."

The three cities mentioned are interested in drawing the franchise away from Cleveland. The Indians' board of directors met Tuesday, but postponed until Oct. 16 a decision on whether the Indians will move. Lebovitz asked about the possible outcome:

Q—"Then it boils down to this: Weighing what you could do in Cleveland financially as compared to what you could do elsewhere. You know the Cleveland situation. Since the directors didn't vote . . . to stay, they apparently can't find this city attractive enough."

Gabe—"Let me repeat what I've always said: The directors would rather stay in Cleveland at less money if we could stay alive here financially. We just want to get all the facts elsewhere before reaching our ultimate decision."

OSU-Illinois Game Eyed For All-American Talent

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Defending champion Illinois' Big Ten football showdown with ranking challenger Ohio State Saturday, also will preen or clip the feathers of some prime All-America candidates.

The Fighting Illini, No. 2 in the AP's national poll, will confront the also-unbeaten Buckeyes with such pedigreed performers as Dick Butkus, 1963 All-America, and his rangy linebacking mate, Don Hansen, not to mention brusing tackles Archie Sutton and Bill Minor, and fullback Jim Grabowski.

Ohio State's All-America potentials include fullback Willard Sander, who has a better two-game rushing record than Grabowski; star defensive back Arnie Chonko; and linebacker Dwight Kelley.

Other players in this important conference battle who earned citations from the Midwest's All-America screening board include halfback Sam Price and quarterback Fred Custardo of Illinois, and quarterback Don Unverferth of Ohio State.

Parker Back With Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) — One of the leading citizens of Broken Bow, Okla., has stopped limping, which may well prove to be a shot in the arm for the Cleveland Browns' defensive line.

Big Frank Parker, a 267-pound tackle, is back in shape after being sidelined with a knee injury since Sept. 13 in Washington.

"It took longer than I expected but the knee feels good now," said Parker Wednesday. "I've been working on weights with it and it should be as good as new."

Parker's return solves what could have been a major problem for the Browns. Bob Gain suffered a broken leg last Sunday, leaving coach Blanton Collier with two defensive tackles—Jim Kanicki and Dick Modzelewski.

The Browns quickly acquired Mike Bundra from the Minnesota Vikings for an undisclosed draft choice. Now Parker is back and the number is up to four.

Parker will handle duties on the right side when the Browns face the Pittsburgh Steelers Saturday night at Municipal Stadium. Modzelewski will be on the left.

Bundra arrived Wednesday and immediately began working with line coach Nick Skorich. He will be available for emergency duty. He has played both sides of the line.

The Browns will be fighting to stay in first place in the Eastern Division of the National Football League. They're 3-0-1, tied with the St. Louis Cardinals. Pittsburgh is 2-2.

Ross Fichtner, defensive back who was knocked out against Dallas last Sunday, also is expected to be back and ready for duty Saturday.

East Scores Late TD To Edge Beavers

Ray Boyd plunged over from four yards out with a minute and a half remaining in the game to give East Junior High a 6-0 victory over Beaver Local in a defensive struggle Wednesday at the East End gridiron.

East Junior scored the late touchdown after tackle Ron Vaughn had blocked his second punt of the game and the Panthers took over on the Beaver Local 45.

Beaver Local never threatened in the contest as both sides threw up strong defenses with an interception by Dale Jones being a key play for East.

Boyd led the Panthers' offense with 126 yards gained in 20 carries.

The victory leaves East with a 1-1 record while Beaver Local is 1-2 on the season.

In a preliminary game, a squad representing the police department will play a firemen's team, Adkins said.

Billed as "the world's greatest basketball show," the Satellites team is comprised of Rookie Brown, Bill Mathews, Walt Welcher, Joke Myers and Frank Gibson.

Brown, former Harlem Globetrotter ace, doubles as coach and is a 20-year veteran of professional basketball.

Blown Tire Halts Arfon's Speed Record

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP) — Art Arfons headed home to Akron, Ohio, today, his effort to top his own world land speed record stalled by a flat tire.

The right back tire of Arfons' 17,000-horsepower jet car blew Wednesday as he streaked across the white salt desert of western Utah at nearly 500 miles an hour.

The blowout damaged the body of the car, called the Green Monster, and Arfons said he would have to take it back to his Akron garage to fix it.

Arfons was not hurt in the mishap.

Arfons, 38, set the record of 434.02 m.p.h. Monday in two passes over a one-mile course. He was clocked at 479 m.p.h. on one of the runs, but a two-way average must be established for the record.

On Wednesday, he was timed at 413.60 m.p.h. on his first run. But on the return trip the tire blew out.

Heavy Rains Soak Tokyo Olympic Site

TOKYO (AP) — A steady morning rain today turned into a hard downpour in the afternoon, putting a damper on the final, feverish preparations for Saturday's opening ceremonies of the Olympic Games.

The weather forecast for Friday also was on the pessimistic side. The weatherman predicted a cloudy day with occasional rain.

OSAGE ORANGE

QUESTION: What is an osage orange tree?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: The osage orange is a relative of the mulberry and fig trees, and originally grew wild in Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma. The fruit looks somewhat like an orange but is wrinkled outside. The pulpy inside is unfit to eat. But if this tree is a failure as a fruit bearer, it has been very useful to man in other ways. The wood is tough and strong and in Indian days was used for cattle ranges before barbed wire fencing was invented, the low-growing osage orange was planted as a "living fence" around many prairie farms. Even after the days of barbed wire, the tree was still useful, as the wood made excellent fence post (B), as well as strong spokes for wagon wheels. When pioneer women wanted a good yellow dye to color dresses or bedspreads, they would boil chips of the orange-colored inner bark in water.

The main use of the osage orange nowadays is shown in the larger picture. With its shiny leaves and thick growth, it is planted as an ornamental tree, one which casts a refreshing area of shade on a hot day.

FOR YOU TO DO: Try to catch the effect of sunlight and shade by coloring the picture. The grass should be very light yellow green and the osage orange tree dark green. Then put some soft shadowy colors over the relaxing boy.

★ ★ ★

Jeffrey Martineau of Fitchburg, Mass., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review and you may win the weekly grand prize of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia.
